

Gollwitzer vows to fight Willow Run expansion

Van Buren Township Supervisor G. Elton Gollwitzer Monday continued his and the township board's opposition to the proposed $100 million expansion of the Willow Run Airport, headquartered in Ypsilanti Township.

The proposed expansion of Willow Run Airport is spearheaded by the Wayne County Road Commission, operators of the Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus.

The expansion seeks to make Willow Run Airport the world's largest air cargo airport and a reliever to Detroit Metro.

The proposed expansion involves 1,850 acres of Van Buren

Township land and would eliminate a total of 777 homes, 12 businesses, two schools, one township hall (Van Buren Township Hall), one fire station and two factories, with resulting tax loss.

In replying to a recent statement made by James Davey, managing director of the Wayne County Road Commission and Detroit Metropolitan Airport, who called the expansion of Willow Run "inevitable," Gollwitzer issued the following statement:

The word "inevitable" has been used recently in connection with the Wayne County Road Commission's intention to expand Willow Run Airport.

The reaction of most people is that we in Van Buren Township are helpless in the face of so formidable a developer. I suspect this is the way we are supposed to feel but it is not right.

After months of study by the Airport Committee and other sources, the following seems to be a more accurate picture of the situation:

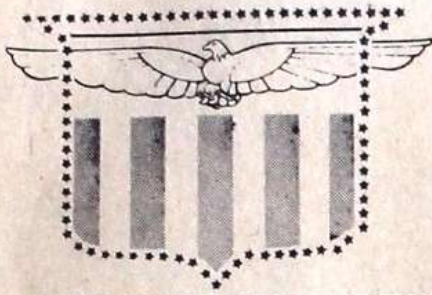

The money that will be used to build the large regional airports will come from the federal government. They have delegated the job of surveying for location of such airports to the various states. Presumably, the money will go where the state officials recommend that it go.

It would seem that the state would want airport facilities some place in the state besides Wayne County. Wayne County has Metropolitan Airport. Another airport in this area simply means that more traffic has to be funnelled in here from all over the state and other outside areas. It does not seem that Wayne County would be their choice when all factors are brought to the attention of the state officials.

Willow Run Airport is not only an existing airport, but it is deeded to the University of Michigan in such a way that it cannot be used in any other way.

Council adopts law regulating firearms

By HENRY CANTIN

An ordinance prohibiting the discharge of certain firearms within the City of Romulus except within certain licensed areas has been approved by the Romulus City Council.

The ordinance, the first firearms code for the city, was adopted by the city council at a special meeting held last Thursday night.

The new ordinance followed months of controversy involving the discharging of firearms within the city. A public hearing was conducted by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) at the Romulus Senior High School on Jan. 11.

The testimony taken at the public hearing, which attracted more than 250 persons, is still under study by the DNR, which had been asked by the city council to hold the hearing and make recommendations.

The testimony taken at the public hearing, which attracted more than 250 persons, is still under study by the DNR, which had been asked by the city council to hold the hearing and make recommendations.

In addition to banning the discharge of firearms in the city the code also provides penalties for violations and arrangements for the licensing of rifle ranges.

Within the meaning of the new ordinance firearms include any rifle, pistol or other explosive device which expels a single projectile at a velocity sufficient to kill, injure or damage persons, property or animals.

The ordinance does not apply to a person discharging a firearm within an approved and licensed gun, skeet or trap club, or within the confines of a licensed rifle range, or to public exhibitions conducted in a safe area and which receive prior written approval of the city's law enforcement agency and the city clerk.

The ordinance does not apply to a person discharging a firearm on property owned by him or a member of his immediate family for which he shall have received prior written approval by the city.

Regulations relative to issuing licenses to clubs or ranges require approval from the law enforcement agency of the city. Based on this approval, the city clerk, can issue a one-year license upon payment of a $10 fee. Every licensee must arrange for annual inspections.

Persons convicted of violating provisions of the gun ordinance face a jail term of not more than 90 days, maximum fine of $500, or both upon the discretion of the court.

Violation of the ordinance rules and regulations is deemed a misdemeanor.

The ordinance adoption was termed a victory for a group of citizens which has repeatedly complained about the careless use of firearms and shooting in an area behind their homes in the Birch Run Townhouse

Cooperatives. The cooperatives are located on Goddard Road, off Wayne Road between Ecorse and Wick roads.

Spokesmen for the citizens group has made several appearances before the city council in efforts to get an ordinance banning hunting in the city.

At the Jan. 25 council session, Mrs. Sandra Armbruster of 35735 Goddard Rd., and Dan Cleary of 35859 Goddard Rd., both of Romulus and representing the Birch Run Townhouse Cooperative residents, reported they had petitions signed by more than 600 persons from throughout the city asking for an ordinance banning the discharge of firearms in the city.

Following their presentation, the council scheduled the special hearing which was held last Thursday.

The adoption of the new gun ordinance by the city council was unanimous.

Major steps begun toward urban renewal

By HENRY CANTIN

Major steps toward completing Romulus' first urban renewal program were initiated during 1971, an annual activities report made by George Wilhelm, urban renewal director, disclosed Monday.

The initial phase of the urban renewal program involves 175 acres of land in the Wayne-Beverly roads area.

The total urban renewal redevelopment program takes in more than 500 acres of land in the same location. Actual development is expected to last a period of approximately 10 years.

The city's urban renewal program was initiated in 1962. The first federal grant for planning was received in 1967 and the total re-development program finalized and approved by both the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and Romulus City Council in July, 1971.

The report disclosed that to date the city has purchased approximately 40 parcels of land at a cost of $228,000 in the first phase. A federal grant in excess of $2.5 million to finance purchases for the first phase has been received by the city and banked.

Wilhelmi reported in his review that negotiations for an additional 60 parcels are under way at the present time.

Offers to purchase parcels of all of the remaining properties in the project area will be completed this month.

To date nine families have been relocated from the urban renewal area at an approximate cost of $64,000. An additional five families are on the current work load.

Wilhelmi reported. Of the nine families, four families have moved out of Romulus-two to Inkster, one to Idlewild and the other to Mississippi.

Wilhelmi reported the local urban renewal office is trying to discourage family displacement or relocation until additional money is received from the federal government for the increased relocation payments.

Current relocation payment estimates were calculated before the new Uniform Relocation Law was enacted in January, 1971. At that time, relocation payments by the federal government were tripled.

Liquor license issue reappears in Romulus

The distribution of Class C liquor licenses was again before the Romulus City Council last week.

In November, 1970, the council approved issuing the last three of the six new Class C liquor licenses allotted the city by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission (MLCC).

A recent communication from the MLCC to council members reported the allotment of six liquor licenses was reduced when the council issued a tavern license (considered by the commission as a Class C license) to one Romulus resident and issued a Class C liquor license to Joseph J. Lambert, operator of the Landing Strip Lounge in Romulus.

Lambert had received his license prior to the 1970 U.S. Census, which is the basis for the additional Class C licenses. The council is seeking a legal opinion of the commission's inclusion of Lambert's license as part of the new licenses.

A somewhat similar communication from the MLCC had been sent to the last three applicants, who were granted liquor licenses.

The commission had requested the council to reconsider the applicants in view of the reduction in the Class C license allotment. The MLCC did not act on the last three applicants.

In December the council tabled all liquor license applications until after Jan. 1.

At the Jan. 25 council meeting, three applicants appeared and again made requests for one of the two remaining liquor licenses.

A request made by John MacZink of 35520 Goddard Rd. was denied when a motion to grant MacZink a liquor license failed for lack of support.

MacZink previously had been approved to receive one of the licenses.

A request made by Joseph Nehra Jr. of 38844 Huron River Dr., was granted.

A request made by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hood of 11209 Whitehorn, Romulus, failed to get council's approval.

Councilman Ellis T. Pennington, who was supported by Councilman Brooker R. Edwards, asked that a communication be sent to City Attorney John E. Young requesting an opinion on the effect the Class B Resort Hotel liquor license granted Ramada Inn has on the total liquor license quota allotted the city.

Council approved the request unanimously.

HEALTH WEEK PROCLAMATION - Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael of Romulus signs a proclamation designating the week of Feb. 7-11 as Health Week in Romulus. During the week the Romulus Jaycee Auxiliary is sponsoring a free pap test clinic. With Mayor

EEA funds approved, Romulus will hire 15

The use by the City of Romulus of more than $109,000 in federal Emergency Employment Act funds has been approved by the Romulus City Council.

At a special meeting held last Thursday night the council approved the creation of an EEA budget and designated the Wyandotte Savings Bank as the depository for EEA funds.

The council on Jan. 13 had deferred official action on the EEA program pending receipt of federal guidelines relative to the federal Emergency Employment Act Program.

Huron High biology teacher suspended

A ninth grade biology teacher at Huron High School in New Boston received a three-day suspension without pay last week for failing to follow administrative policy concerning the showing of films and discussion of venereal diseases.

Receiving the suspension, issued by School Superintendent Byron K. Antcliff, was Steve Reese of Ypsilanti, a member of the teaching staff at the high school for the last 3½ years. Reese also teaches science at the junior high school level.

Present administrative policy of the Huron Board of Education requires parental consent prior to the showing of films on or the discussion of venereal disease or any other sex education matters now allowed under the State Department of Education guidelines.

Under present state guidelines involving the teaching of sex education, parents must be apprised of the material used and the nature of discussion. In addition, parents may excuse their children from such classes.

Antcliff disclosed that the teacher, when he requested permission to talk about venereal disease in his classroom, was told of the guidelines. He allegedly failed to follow these guidelines.

Some parents of high school students have complained to high school principal William Miller of the teacher's teaching. Last weekend, school officials held an executive session and on Monday, Jan. 24, issued the suspension.

The film and discussion on venereal disease was held on Jan. 20.

On the preceding day (Jan. 19) two mothers charged the teacher discussed sex to his students, using what they contended was unprintable language for the classroom. They complained to the school superintendent after the children came out with notes on the discussion by the teacher. Mrs. Olga McDavid of 30362 West Rd., New Boston, and Mrs. Doris Hartsuff, also of New Boston, are the mothers who filed the complaint against the teacher.

Mrs. McDavid reported on Monday she intends to take the teacher's case before the school board's next meeting. The three-day suspension relates to the showing of the film without first getting parental consent and does not settle her complaint, she said.

The sex education issue in Huron District schools has caused a controversy since a civil court suit seeking an injunction against the teaching of sex education was filed in Wayne County Circuit Court by four mothers in December, 1970.

On Friday, Jan. 28, Circuit Court Judge Edwards S. Piggins deferred action on a motion for summary dismissal of the suit filed by the school board.

During last Friday's court proceedings, several of the notes brought home by two students was presented to the judge by the plaintiffs' attorney to show that sex education in violation of state guidelines is being taught at the high school.

The school board had denied that sex education was being taught as charged by the plaintiffs against guidelines set forth by the State Department of Education.

The court deferred any further action in the suit pending the taking of depositions.

Antcliff has reported several prior attempts to schedule the taking of depositions in the case have been unsuccessful, thus delaying court proceedings.

A new date for the taking of the depositions is to be scheduled as soon as possible.

Grease Paint...

...and Spotlights

By DAVE FERDON

The Romulus City Players have nearly completed preparations for their production of Winnie The Pooh. The story is the stage version of the children's tale by A.A. Milne.

The play should keep the mystery of theatre alive for the young. A troubled bear enters the dreams of young Chris Robin. Many animals of the forest help Pooh Bear get into trouble and Pooh Bear, being the gullible creature that he is, manages to arrive at all sorts of wrong decisions to keep himself there, but you and your children may see for yourselves.

The one-hour production of Winnie The Pooh will be staged Saturday and Sunday afternoon, Feb. 12 and 13 at 3:00 p.m. The Romulus High School Auditorium on Wayne Road near the expressway will open at 2:30 for patrons. Tickets will be available for 25 cents per person at the door.

Leading the cast is Ted G. Martin, a student at Eastern Michigan University and former graduate of Romulus High School. Ted is studying drama at the university and contributes much to the character roll of Pooh Bear. Cathy Wilson, a science major at Eastern, plays Mother Rabbit, and Ann Hatten is dubbed with Eeyore the donkey.

Testing their dramatical skills are Fred Williams as the Wise Old Owl and his son Joey as a forest animal. Kay Zaika plays Piglet, a friend of Pooh Bear who finds trouble at the hands of Kanga the Kangaroo (Gloria Chandler), who sincerely believes that all animals should be clean beyond words and thoroughly fortified with vitamins and castor oil.

Kay is accompanied on stage by her daughter Jane, who will play Chris Robin for one night, sharing the roll with Aaron Chandler, who is double cast for the second performance. The family is evident as curtain call will show Shelley Chandler with Andre, Claire and John Zaika as animals of the forest. Rinee and Dawn Pfeilsticker are also forest animals.

Carol Rod recently added two to our cast. Her daughter Kimberlee appears as an extra and Carol acts the part of a very sharp-nosed skunk. Charles Curley narrates the story of the Pooh Bear, helping the audience follow the play between acts. Barb Curley, Cindy Snyder, Eileen McCormack and Addell Austin, Romulus High School Drama Club members, have supporting rolls in the cast.

June Blanton, one of the City Players first members and supports, is working on the full body costumes to be used by the animals with Mary Ann Treder and Arlene Pfeilsticker.

The children's theatre program was scheduled last fall through the Romulus Recreation Department, which sponsors the group of amateur actors. The City Players are a scheduled activity of the Recreation Department and Romulus residents may join by attending practices in the Romulus High School Auditorium on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. until performance dates Feb. 12 and 13.

The group will not stage another play until this summer, when both adult and junior high drama programs hopefully will be operating. Plans have not been finalized for the summer program.

Electrocuted youth not 'horsing around'

In a story in the Jan. 26 edition of the Romulus Roman, a quote regarding the death of Kim A. Solo, electrocuted Jan. 19, was erroneously attributed to Wayne County Sheriff's Detective Arthur Torikian. The mistaken quote said Solo was killed while he and two companions were "horsing around" near a Detroit Edison Co. pole.

Det. Torikian did not say that Solo and the others were horsing around, but he did say the three were playing with the plastic covering on the guy wire by throwing it up and down the wire when it suddenly came loose.

Solo, 18, of 37561 Barth, was killed when the guy wire swung into the power line at the top of the pole and conducted the current through the guy wire into his body.

The accident occurred on a roadside near Solo's home.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

BY HAROLD REDISKE, DIRECTOR

It has been said strict patterns of behavior are hard to live by because life moves at such a terrific pace these days. Those who say and believe that often take the easy road. Invariably, they wind up with a hard row to hoe. The distinction between price and value of morals is not understood.

For example, popularity is considered a value. And it certainly is. However, happiness and pleasure obtained through popularity is a false value when the price includes abandonment of morals. Sooner or later, improper behavior brings about a feeling of frustration. The price paid far exceeds the value received.

A reputation for decency, dependability and honesty reflect good character. Good character can not be bought. It is your most valuable possession for which there is no price tag.

Donald Nickel of Romulus has retired from the Ford Motor Co. after 35 years as an executive engineer in Pattern Design at the Rouge Division of the company.

Nickel, who hails from a family prominent in the medical profession, was the honored guest at a dinner in the executive room of the Ford Rouge offices on Monday and at another dinner held in his honor at the Hilton Inn in Romulus last Sunday.

An ardent deep sea fisherman, Nickel plans to try to fish off the Atlantic Ocean off West Palm Beach, Fla., during the winter months and at Four Mile Lake, located near Dexter, during the summer months.

Nickel's other hobbies which will receive a lot of attention are the raising of pedigree Flemish giant show rabbits, some weighing up to 24 pounds, which have taken top state awards at the Michigan State Fair.

His Grand Champion stock makes him very proud of this hobby.

Romulus Jaycees lower age limits for new members

The Romulus Jaycee Club has approved changing the structure of its organization to include those young men who are at least 18 years old, Gary Johnson, club president, announced Monday.

At their regular membership meeting held on Jan. 25, the Jaycees overwhelmingly voted to modify their constitution to allow memberships for those 18, 19 and 20 years of age. Previously only persons 21-25 years old were eligible for membership.

Membership Chairman Lee Silvey, speaking for the Jaycees, stated this action was taken due to the recent legal status change which took place statewide.

He also noted the reason for the age limitations was to insure new persons always would be utilized to perform services while those who had developed over the years would be ready to move on into other aspects of community life and service.

The local Jaycees noted the Michigan Jaycees were the first group in the nation to make this unprecedented move.

Romulus PTA Council backs millage request

Romulus Area Parent and Teachers Association Council, representing nine local units, voted Tuesday to spearhead a campaign for passage of a 10-mill school referendum that will be presented to voters on March 13.

Council members, upon learning that 25 per cent of the district's operational funds hinge on the vote, decided to launch a campaign to inform voters of the importance of the issue.

"While the board of education has not stated what would be eliminated if the millage fails to gain voter approval - what portions of the curriculum would be cut to balance the budget - the council decided that we cannot afford to deprive our children of 25 per cent of their educational program," said Mrs. Fran Petre, council president.

"We will be making posters, organizing informal coffee hours, distributing fliers and doing our best to see that voters are informed about the importance of a favorable vote," Mrs. Petre continued. In addition, a voter registration drive is being conducted with the cooperation of the Romulus Concerned Parents group, with Mrs. Geneva Clark handling arrangements.

Other council members will organize coffee hour discussions. Mrs. Mary Ann Treder and Mrs. Gloria Chandler will schedule speakers for anyone wishing to open their homes to friends and neighbors for an informational meeting. Mrs. Chandler can be reached at 941-2678.

Mrs. Carole Bales will contact persons interested in helping design and paint posters and other informational material.

application to be sent to the federal government which will enable the city to increase the grant for relocation payments.

All relocation payments are 100 per cent reimbursed by the federal government and no city money is involved, Wilhelmi reported.

There are at present 20 deteriorated or burned out shells of homes within the urban renewal area which should be demolished.

The local urban renewal office and Wade, Trim & Associates, city engineers, are preparing the first demolition contract for submission to city council. Approximately 30 dwellings will be available for demolition by the March 1, Wilhelmi stated.

In the coming weeks prospective developers will be contacted by letter to be approved by the city council.

A Preliminary Review Committee, with members from the city council, the planning commission, administration and the Citizens District Council, will be set up in the coming weeks, subject to council's approval.

Nursery plan tabled by Romulus planners

A proposal for the construction of a children's day nursery in the southeast corner of Meadow Avenue and Eureka Road in Romulus has been presented to the Romulus Planning Commission.

A request for approval of the nursery site plan was submitted to the planning commission by Pre-School Service Corp., 15373 Farmington Rd., Livonia.

Max Durbin, president of the corporation, told the planners at their recent meeting the nursery facilities would be opened five days a week with children accepted on a part-time, full-time basis. There would be about 45 children daily.

The staff would consist of one adult for every 10 children, plus education program staff members.

George Peek, city planning consultant, reported the proposed day nursery in the Greenview Meadows Subdivision is permitted subject to the review and approval of the planning commission.

Peek added the site plan submitted with the application provides little on which to base a recommendation for approval.

He reported "we are unable to judge the number of children to be enrolled, the type of screening from adjoining residential properties, building setbacks, parking lot layout or needs." Peek recommended the request be denied or tabled pending more detailed information from the applicant.

The commission tabled the request pending the submission of a revised site plan.

Cory PTA will sponsor clothing, furniture drives

Robert L. McConeghy, superintendent of Romulus Schools, spoke to Cory Elementary School PTA members recently at a meeting at the school. McConeghy explained the importance of renewing the 10 mills of school operating funds scheduled for a referendum in March.

The group decided to sponsor a clothing drive for the Helping Hand Thrift Shop and to buy a piece of recreational equipment for the Romulus Help Center. It also will sponsor a used furniture drive for the center.

Mrs. Pat Smith was named appointment chairman for the pap test clinic scheduled for Feb. 7-11 at the United Methodist Church. Cory area women wishing to make appointments for the test may contact Mrs. Smith at 941-9442.

According to Mrs. Gloria Chandler, PTA president, funds were voted to buy scenery for a musical review to be presented by grades 3-6 during March.

Goals for this year's activities include $500 for library books and carpeting

It was reported that approximately 15 persons would be put to work in a matter of days.

Council acted within hours of the deadline set by the federal government (Feb. 1) for making use of EEA funds to reduce the city's unemployment rolls.

Members of the city council requested the establishment of an EEA budget and designated a depository for the funds as a method of better control and accounting of the fund's expenditures.

That state tax hike just might stay around

Don't look now, voters and taxpayers, but that 50 per cent increase—from 2.6 to 3.9 per cent—in Michigan's personal income tax enacted last July will probably stay with us right past its Aug. 1, 1972 expiration date.

Sen. Robert Vanderlaan, a Republican from Kentwood, Monday night introduced a bill to extend the tax boost which was pushed through the legislature six months ago as an "emergency" measure.

We would like to remind our area legislators—especially Sen. William Faust and Reps. Tom Brown and James Tierney, since they were "yea" sayers last July, and Rep. Edward Mahalak, who was absent during the vote—that Section 4 of Senate Bill No. 616, as quoted from the House journal, reads as follows:

"The provisions of this amendatory (Editor's note: Senate Bill 616 actually was an amendment to the 'Income Tax Act of 1967') shall expire August 1, 1972 unless prior thereto the Legislature has submitted to the electors constitutional amendments which shall (a) grant property tax relief by limiting the levying of more than 10 mills on property for school operational purposes, (b) permit the legislature to enact taxes on income graduated either as to rate or base or both, or (c) a combination of (a) and (b) as one amendment and (a) as a separate amendment and which said amendments shall be voted upon at a special election to be held on November 2, 1971 or at the general election to be held November 1972."

With all the talk around Lansing now that the legislature never intended to let the tax expire, we have to wonder why our elected state officials even bothered to write in an expiration date in the first place unless it was a means of deceiving the taxpaying and voting public again.

The original reason for the tax, legislators said, was the General Motors Corp. strike which slashed the state's estimated revenue and put the state in serious financial straits a year ago. Now Governor Milliken, who proposed the original tax, reportedly—according to several legislators—has written the tax extension into his 1972-73 budget of $2.27 billion.

The governor says he can balance his budget with no new taxes, assuming the 50 per cent hike of 1971 remains. If a 3.9 per cent tax after Aug. 1, 1972 isn't supposed to be considered a new tax, then anyone having bought a 1972 model automobile to replace an older one can't call it a new car.

Monday night's bill is just another case of how the public is looked upon by our elected officials as an endless source of revenue. Since the paying citizen has no real choice when it comes to money matters in Lansing—or Washington, D.C. for that matter—it's little wonder why he strikes back at taxes in the only avenue actually open to him: voting down millage elections.

But that's another story. We strongly urge the public to get off its lackadaisical duff and let the powers-that-be in Lansing know how the people feel about the increasing taxes and expenses.

This is an election year, you know, so write your local legislators right away because you can be sure the tax extension plan will soon become permanent if you don't. It would also be a good idea to send copies of your letters to Governor Milliken, Sen. Vanderlaan and Sen. Harry DeMaso, whose Senate Taxation Committee has received the bill.

Send us a copy too and we'll be sure to publish it in another effort to create still further anti-tax sentiment in Western Wayne County.

If you need a boost toward taking pen in hand, just look at the W-2 form you received last month from your employer and note how much of your 1971 income went toward taxes, both state and federal.

Ouch! Double ouch!

Final effort started toward redistricting

By DON HOENSHELL

Scrambling legislators will make a final try in mid-February to re-draw the 19 Congressional district boundaries before a federal court threatens to take over the job.

Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley warned them that Republicans who started a lawsuit in Port Huron have agreed on a Feb. 29 deadline.

"I don't think it will go to the court," said Senator John T. Bowman (D-Roseville). "I think we will pass a bill."

Democrats forced a bill out of the House elections committee last Dec. 15 to the floor where it is marking time while strategists of both parties parry and thrust to get a version that will pass.

Rep. Alfred A. Sheridan (D-Taylor), chairman of the committee, disclosed a new Plan 4 that would lock in the seven Democratic incumbents and give the party a strong shot at three present Republican seats.

The Democratic targets in the new plan are U.S. Reps. William S. Broomfield of Royal Oak and Donald W. Riegle of Flint and an incumbent-free district for Bowman in Macomb and Thumb area counties.

Bowman, an 18-year legislative veteran, is emerging as the strong man in the behind-the-scenes maneuvering.

"Unless they realize we can't do anything until Bowman agrees to it, they're nuts," Sheridan said.

Democrats have dropped Republican Rep. Marvin L. Esch of Ann Arbor as a target and the big fight now will be over Broomfield, to a lesser extent Riegle and over the seat reserved for Bowman.

"That plan (Sheridan No. 4) would start in Macomb, take me up in the Thumb in part of (U.S. Rep. James) Harvey's district," Bowman said. "I'd buy that one."

Minutes later, Sheridan said he has reversed his earlier plan which would have forced Bowman to run against Democratic U.S. Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi in Detroit's 14th district, giving Macomb a second seat.

The new plan would keep Nedzi in Detroit, with the Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods after giving up 200,000 residents in Macomb.

"If anybody caved in to Bowman, it's because they realized that John Bowman has got the votes in the Senate and a group of loyalists in the House," Sheridan said.

He said the plan would allow Democratic U.S. Rep. James G. O'Hara of Warren to keep 80 per cent of his present district while picking up smaller Republican counties to the north.

Sheridan said O'Hara's district now has a population of 640,000 and must be trimmed to 467,000 to meet the one man-one vote requirement.

Oakland county district boundaries have changed more in the planning here than a page changes his socks.

Others said the latest Sheridan plan, which gives Republicans an almost exclusive voice outstate, is the most likely to be the compromise vehicle.

Sheridan said the legal descriptions of the new boundaries will be ready for work on the floor by mid-February.

Lazy man makes his confession

Confessions of a lazy man:

The world lies before us like a freshly opened oyster-but few of us even take the trouble to look and see whether there's a pearl in it.

This is the action of lazy men, people properly scorned by proper people who do their bit to keep the world forging upward and onward. If the fate of mankind rested on us lazy ones, we'd all still be getting our main nutrients from banana plants.

Sometimes the conscience of a lazy man is appalled by his own inaction.

To take a personal case, I am now and then made uneasy by the cold fact that during a life now in the upper reaches of middle age I have never—

Owned or driven an automobile or a sailboat or a motorcycle.

Bought a house or a share of stock or a piece of the good earth larger than three cemetery plots.

Rented a pair of skis or a love nest.

Planted a garden or tracked a moose.

Trapped a mouse or shot an elephant.

Married a widow or conquered the zither.

Learned how to sew on a button or marinate a herring.

Listened to a sex lecture at a PTA meeting or broken up a dice game at Las Vegas.

Grown a beard or completed the correspondence course in ventriloquism I started at the age of 12.

Punched a timeclock or organized a riot or a respectable orgy.

Launched a missile or lunched with a king.

Oh, hell, now that I've admitted this much, I might as well tell all. I haven't even haunted a house with Phyllis Diller or spent a night out with Count Dracula painting the town red.

But if we lazy people have our moments of guilt and regret, we have our rewards, too. We don't cause more ambitious people trouble except by being too sluggish to get out of their way quickly enough. But when they wear themselves out by living too hard, we are always there to shed a languid tear at their funerals.

Time is the only thing we kill, but we know how to kill it cheerfully. And somehow there always seems plenty of it left.

We have time to count the birthing buds on a bough being born into leaves. We can hear the whisper and laughter of God in every vocal wind that blows.

Yes, the lazy man is not altogether a loser in life. He also has the added compensation of knowing that, while he hasn't really got much done, this only leaves him that many more worthwhile things he can still find to do if he ever decides to change his ways and become a busybody.

New science approach at Beverly

By TERREL M. LECESNE, Principal, Beverly Elementary School Romulus

This year Beverly School is offering a new elementary science program on a pilot basis. Known as the AAAS Science-A Process Approach, it is an elementary science curriculum which was developed to improve the elementary science education for children by providing them with an experimental and inquiry oriented program. AAAS is the Aconym for American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Starting in kindergarten and first grade, children are taught eight basic processes of science which are: observing, using space and time relationships, using numbers, measuring, classifying, communicating, predicting and inferring.

A principal aim of the program is to develop skill in the careful and systematic use of these processes in the primary grades to prepare children for more complex science learning in the later grades.

In the intermediate grades, children are confronted with more complex scientific activities such as formulating hypothesis, controlling variables, interpreting data and experimenting.

This program differs from the traditional science program in that emphasis is placed on the process approach or through the process of "learning by doing." It departs from the mere textbook routines and provides an added stimuli through a variety of activities that capture the natural curiosity inherent in children.

Science is more than a body of facts and a collection of principles—it is a structured and directed way of asking and answering questions. To learn how to use scientific inquiry to answer questions will provide a child with a substantive skill which can be applied without limit.

The well-taught child will learn that science is not memory or magic, but rather a disciplined form of human curiosity.

The program itself is built on a sequential basis beginning with simple processes in primary grades and advancing to increased complexity in later grades.

Typically, activities are designed to develop capabilities in one process which will contribute to the child's capabilities in other processes.

For example, capabilities in observing may well contribute to the child's capability in classifying and measuring. Each year the program is extended to include succeeding grades; thusly, this year it's kindergarten and first grade; next year second grade will be added and so on.

From the start the child is an active participant in scientific tasks. He does, indeed, observe, classify, measure and predict. He has the chance to work as a scientist by carrying out the kinds of tasks which scientists perform.

The AAS Program does not replace the textbook, but adds a new dimension to elementary science teaching. It complements the textbook.

Resident questions city council's sincerity

To the editor:

In the last few months councilmen from the City of Romulus have taken great pleasure in criticizing the mayor on his policies. I wonder if they have ever sat down and taken a good look at their own policies.

The only policy I have ever seen them make use of is the policy of doing nothing at all unless they are forced to or unless it looks good for them. If an issue is controversial at all they table it for further review. More often than not it's never heard of again.

We have heard a great deal from certain councilmen about how they are saving the taxpayer's money and how they are for the little man. Yet when the mayor purchased a chloride truck at an almost unheard of low price, we have heard nothing but criticism. In doing so the mayor saved the taxpayers several thousands of dollars.

Can it be that only the council is entitled to save the taxpayers money? If Mr. Carmichael had waited for Council approval on this matter, we'd still be waiting for that chloride truck. In fact, if we waited for council to make a decision, we'd still be using candles for street lights.

Speaking of the taxpayer's money, I've seen these same men who will argue for hours over $1.50 pass items for thousands of dollars without questioning what they are paying for. Could it possibly be that our council isn't well enough informed about finances to ask intelligent questions about anything more important than how much it costs to change a tire.

It seems very strange to me, Mr. Edwards, that you are so concerned about the city budget being overspent. After all, monies spent over $750 require council approval. You can't mean that you didn't know what you have been approving all these months?

There has also been a lot of lip service dedicated to the mayor's policies in hiring employees. A few of our councilmen don't approve. Has anyone ever explained to the council that Mr. Carmichael doesn't need their approval?

I think he has been more than patient with council in taking their criticism as long as he has. I'm positive the council members would not be as forbearing if the mayor had tried to usurp their powers as often as they have his. So he has made a few decisions the council doesn't approve of. Well, someone had better start making some decisions, with or without the council's approval. If a few of our councilmen had their way we'd still be back in the horse and buggy days. We are a growing city and should be making much greater progress than we are. Instead we have a couple men sitting on the council who have done everything possible to hold us back. Township government is a thing of the past. This is 1972 and the council should realize that under the city charter we have a new system of operation. If we had liked the way a township operated we wouldn't have the City of Romulus today.

The citizens of Romulus should take time and spend an evening at a council meeting. Take my word for it, it's better comedy than anything on television.

As for the little man, I guess the council doesn't consider the city employees in that category. Yet we have some employees who for 40 hours work, 5 days a week, are making only a little more than twice what our councilmen get for holding office and attending a few meetings a month. Let's face it, $6,500 per year is poverty wages. But the council doesn't seem too concerned about them.

In fact, the council has needlessly delayed signing a new union contract for the employees since last April. These employees have not had a raise in nearly two years.

When will these councilmen, some of them good union men (?), realize that you can't keep qualified help by offering them half what is paid on outside jobs? Unsatisfied employees can cost the taxpayer a great deal of money. And by the way gentlemen, just how much of the taxpayer's money has been spent on attorney's fees fighting the employee's union in the last 10 months?

While we're on the subject of the little man, let's talk about the liquor licenses. There are people who have had their applications in for years and been refused while council has granted one to a man whose father recently sold a very lucrative liquor store business.

The mayor, to date, has not exercised all the power delegated to him by the city charter. In fact, the biggest criticism I have heard of Mr. Carmichael is that he has delayed this long. Perhaps its time for the citizens of Romulus to get behind the mayor, who you elected, and join him in demanding that the city council work jointly with him instead of against him.

State budget presents a complex problem

The state budget is a problem that comes around every year to vex the legislature. It becomes more and more difficult to stretch state revenues to meet the demands for expenditures caused by a growing Michigan.

The process starts each year when the governor presents his budget recommendations to the legislature. After that the recommendations are translated into bills which are studied and often refashioned by the House and Senate Appropriations Committees.

In time these various bills arrive on the floor of the House and Senate for debate, possible amendments, discussion and explanation and vote.

The governor's recent proposals for the fiscal year starting next July 1 are for a budget of $2.269 billion. This is a record and some $224.4 million over this year's

By EDWARD E. MAHALAK
State Representative
38th District

spending levels. The budget contains few new programs, but does seek to develop programs started in previous years.

The projected state revenues for fiscal 1972-73 were set at $2.281 billion. Much of the additional revenue will come from increased state income taxes on individuals, corporations and financial institutions. That tax increase went into effect last Aug. 1. According to the governor's budget planners, collection of those taxes is expected to increase the state's total revenue by 12.5 per cent this year.

Some of the major items in the proposed budget include: School aid grants, $616.7 million, an increase of $37.6 million; social services, $594.4 million, an increase of $75.3 million; higher education, $410.3 million, an increase of $42.9 million; mental health $228.6 million, an increase of $17.7 million; special grants and transfers, $50.1 million, the same level as this year. State police, $45.9 million, an increase of $2.8 million; corrections, $40.1 million, an increase of $4.2 million, and the State Department of Education, $37.2 million, an increase of $1.2 million.

The governor's balanced budget is based on an improved economic picture for 1972-73. If this does not occur, the state could be in the same plight it was last year and again this year when there had to be cutbacks and various other actions taken to balance the budget. The state constitution prohibits the state from running in the red.

It is expected that the state will end this year with a very lean $1 million surplus. The new budget proposals anticipate a surplus of $11.7 million at the end of next fiscal year.

The budget leans heavily toward education and social services, two of the biggest responsibilities of state government. The proposals for school aid, higher education and the Department of Education are up a total of more than $80 million over present levels.

As noted, social services recommendations are more than $75 million over current appropriations. Welfare needs are difficult to predict and depend considerably on the state of the economy. The number of public assistance recipients is expected to rise to some 670,000 in 1972-73.

Criticism of mailman angers Romulus lady

To the editor:

When I read the letter from the mail carrier last week, I was tempted to write, since I was in complete agreement with her. However, I hadn't gotten around to it yet when I read the letter this week from Mrs. R.E.V. of Belleville. Her letter made me angry enough to write immediately.

I think Mrs. R.E.V. completely missed the point though, when she said mail carriers know their duties when they start their jobs and shouldn't expect gratuities. My impression was not that mail carrier was expecting gratuities, but commenting on any lack of appreciation from postal patrons.

No, we the public are not expected to "support" people in public service jobs. But as human beings, we are supposed to appreciate in one form or another, any and all individuals who go out of their way for us - who go beyond the rules of their job. This includes not only mail carriers, but newsboys, delivery people - and yes, even the trash collectors.

I do not believe that people like Mrs. R.E.V. "Do favors for people all the time out of the goodness of their hearts." People who do things out of the goodness of their hearts are not the kind to complain when someone asks for some form of appreciation. Mrs. R.E.V. and her kind are the ones who will do favors for friends, where they can count on reciprocation.

I do not think it would work a hardship on any individual or family to take time out to realize that people like the mail carriers and newsboys come through with their service regardless of weather, regardless of road conditions, regardless of problems at home.

Their counterparts in industry or unions have greater benefits, greater protection. How often this winter did you grumble that your mail or newspaper was late? Were the roads icy and dangerous? Were the winds howling so that the newsboy lost some of his papers to the weather, and then had to pay for their replacement?

Have you ever watched a newsboy go from door to door making his collections in sub-zero weather, not to have anyone even ask him to step inside the door for a minute while they get their money? Have you ever thought of the services your mail carrier gives that are not in the regulations - like coming up your snow covered walk, like taking mail you've left for outgoing because you didn't want to walk to the mailbox, like trying to skirt around the barking dog on the block in hopes that he won't get bitten?

These and many other things are everyday occurrences to our mail carriers, who, if you believe it or not, do not have to deliver mail under those circumstances. What about the summer weather? Have you ever offered a cold drink to the mail carrier who is walking in that heat and humidity for hours? Yes, it's the job.

Wouldn't it be a pity if all of our service people did "just their jobs" and no more? What about the trash collectors? Have you ever watched how some will just throw down your barrels not caring what condition they end up in, while others take the time to stand them upright and lock the covers back on?

Yes, Mrs. R.E.V., our public service people have the right to expect some kind of appreciation. Many of them earn it. For those who do, what nicer time to say thank you than at the holidays. You ask if the children of public service people aren't going to look for handouts too? What about your children? Wouldn't this be a nice way to teach them to say thank you to others?

Wouldn't it be nice if every person did what I've been doing for 20 years and have tried to get others to do - put one dollar in a card at Christmas time as a thank you to those who have given you service - the mail carrier, the newsboy, the trashman, and anyone else who has given you service above what they are paid to do. A couple of dollars, to the deserving people, once a year, won't break most families, and think how good you might feel saying thank you in this way.

Problem of dropouts signal of deficiency

To the Editor:

Since the inauguration of the Stay-in-School campaign in 1963 by our late president John F. Kennedy, much attention has been drawn to the problem of school dropouts.

Various poster campaigns and television and radio advertisements were initiated and are currently being used to keep potential dropouts in school or to get dropouts to return to school.

The result of all this publicity has had an adverse effect as society has associated the school dropout with failure.

This stigma attached to the dropout is not his burden, it belongs on us. In effect, the more than one million young Americans who will not return to their classrooms this year are saying, "Your educational system is not appropriate for our needs." We need changes in our present system.

Everybody should be educated, but this does not necessarily mean that everybody should go to college for four years before they are able to contribute to society. We need more vocational courses offered in our schools to prepare students for careers in numerous emerging fields resulting from our recent technological advances. We need work-study programs to keep students from dropping out of school for economic reasons.

Other areas in our educational system that need to be improved or established are in personal counseling, special classes, after-school study programs, tutorial help, improved and more flexible curricular offerings and better qualified teachers who are interested in people.

Dropouts are everyone's concern. In each community there are people willing to help, but it is the teachers and school administrators who will have to take the initiative and provide the leadership to show them how we can correct the dropout problem.

If we do not move to implement the needed changes in our educational system and we do not attain total community involvement with our school system, we as taxpayers can look forward to paying more heavily than ever for the treatment of delinquents, the support of unemployables and in general higher welfare costs.

Parents must protect students from sex ed

To the editor:

Parents, for the past two years the Huron School Administration has continually denied they are teaching sex education to our children. I find that I must agree with them, for after reading notes that were taken by a student in the ninth grade biology class, I was thoroughly disgusted. In my opinion it was not even good sex education; it was nothing more than pure garbage!

Isn't it ironic that the very notes taken in a classroom, by a 14-year-old student, cannot be printed in a newspaper, but this trash can be fed to your children under the guise of a biology class?

On Jan. 28 a hearing was held in Judge Edward S. Piggins court to have the pending court suit brought by four mothers last year dismissed on grounds that this school district has no sex education class in their schools.

Mr. Larry S. Davidow, plaintiffs' attorney, presented the afore-mentioned notes to Judge Piggins. His comment on reading them was: "By these notes, sex education is being taught and in a very crude way." Judge Piggins then refused to grant Mr. Norbert, school attorney, a dismissal on grounds that "they are teaching it."

The attorney stated that "this court case was wasting the taxpayers money." Judge Piggins said, "in that case, if the school administrators want to admit that they are teaching sex education, the case can be closed now!" Mr. Norbert said, "No, it is the principal of the thing." It seems the school administrators don't mind spending the taxpayers dollar.

Parents who do not believe that the schoolhouse is the proper place to teach raw sex must go to the school board meetings and demand that proper guidelines be set down by the board members for the teachers to follow.

Parents are continually losing their children to drugs, loose morals and jails, and as long as we have parents who say, "there's nothing we can do," we will continue to lose our children. I know that you parents love your children, and you would probably kill for them if you thought they were being physically attacked and harmed, yet they are being attacked mentally and we do nothing to defend them!

Parents who are willing to make a stand, please attend the next school board meeting. Call Hannan Road Elementary School for the time and place.

Site plan revision considered tonight

A decision by the Van Buren Planning Commission on approving a site plan revision for the Woodbury Green development in Van Buren Township will be made at tonight's (Wednesday) meeting.

The proposed site plan for the Woodbury Green development, located at Haggerty Road between Huron River Drive and Robbe Road, already has been approved by the planning commission.

Art Kopelman of Seligman and Associates Inc. of Southfield, developers of Woodbury Green, reported at a special planning commission meeting held Jan. 26 that in starting to build, he has come across a second gas main along the length of his property.

The firm had planned on one gas main. Finding the second gas main was a surprise.

He told the planners the firm cannot build over it and a

Comedy classic

'Odd Couple' opens Thursday at Oakland

Are Felix and Oscar from "The Odd Couple" just comic figures in a situation comedy, or are they representatives of the tragic loneliness of divorce?

John Goring, 35, articulate director of the forthcoming Meadow Brook Theatre production of "THE ODD COUPLE" which opens tomorrow at Oakland University, sees them both ways.

"This is Neil Simon's comedy classic," he said in a recent interview, "and the characters of Felix and Oscar are marvelously drawn. Simon has the ability to take a human situation, a serious contemporary problem, and see it from a comic point of view."

"We are maintaining his established approach, his phenomenal comedy dialogue, and at the same time trying to convey the sense of isolation and loneliness that divorced people meet."

One reason for this play's continuing appeal is that the audience identifies with either Felix, the fussy bachelor, or Oscar, the lovable slob. "Even happily married people," said Goring, "find it not too hard to speculate what life would be like if they were not so lucky."

Going, who lives in New York between plays, is directing for the first time at Meadow Brook Theatre. He is no stranger to theatre in Michigan, however, working for the past three seasons as director at the Cherry County Playhouse in Traverse City. This past summer he directed Joan Bennett and David Huffman in one of the first productions of "Butterflies Are Free" to play outside New York.

Just before beginning rehearsals at Meadow Brook Theatre he again directed "Butterflies Are Free," this time at the Royal Poinciana Playhouse in Palm Beach, Fla.

A theatre major at Catholic University in Washington, D.C., Goring completed his master's work at the University of Minnesota. After touring for two seasons as an actor, he began his directing career as assistant director of the famous Guthrie Theatre in Minneapolis.

"The Odd Couple" which stars William LeMassena as Oscar and Page Johnson as Felix Ungar, will open tomorrow at the Meadow Brook Theatre, and will play through Sunday, Feb. 27.

HORSE SHOW - America's horse enthusiasts may increase substantially as a result of watching Walt Disney's exciting new film "Justin Morgan Had a Horse," to be shown in two parts on NBC's "Wonderful World of Disney" Feb. 6 and 13. The film centers around the life of Justin Morgan, who was responsible for the development of

Disney film depicts start of Morgan horse

Michigans horse enthusiasts, and especially Morgan Horse owners are enthusiastic about the new film, "Justin Morgan Had a Horse," that has been produced and released by Walt Disney Studios.

The film will be aired in two parts on NBC-TV's "Wonderful World of Disney," Sunday evenings, Feb. 6 and 13.

The early history of the Morgan horse - America's first and most versatile equine breed - is the subject of the movie.

There are hundreds of Morgan owners throughout Michigan, Ohio and Indiana that show their Morgans each year as well as ride them just for pleasure.

Few people know, for instance, that the Morgan was the first native breed in America; that the Morgan was once the king of American race tracks; and that Morgan blood contributed to the American Saddle Horse, Tennessee Walking Horse, and the Standardbred breeds.

No one but the most avid horse enthusiast realizes that Morgan horse units were the most valued cavalry of the Civil War; or why the Morgan is called today's most versatile breed. The American Morgan Horse Association headquarters is located in Hamilton, N.Y.

The film tells of the development of the breed in the late 1700s, and the colorful segment in the life of Justin Morgan and his little bay stallion who could outrun, outwork and generally out-do any other horse brought against him.

Pauling slated for show

Two-time Nobel Prize winner Linus Pauling was the interview subject for the 100th taping of "Decisions of the 70's," a Mutual Broadcasting System public service radio program produced by Wayne State University in the studios of WDET-FM, the University radio station.

Dr. Pauling was interviewed on the responsibilities of scientists in today's society by the program host, Dr. Richard Ward, associate professor of Geology at WSU. The program will be broadcast nationally by Mutual at 9:36 p.m. tonight. It will be heard in Detroit at 7 a.m., Sunday, on WCAR.

Dr. Pauling was at Wayne State for the 20th Annual Symposium on Blood, held recently. He predicted at the Symposium and during the broadcast interview that the great advances in medicine in the coming decade will be in the field of nutrition.

"I am confident," he said, "that the incidence of cancer could be reduced by 10 percent by better nutrition."

Dr. Pauling most recently attracted national attention when he stated that Vitamin C was an effective treatment for the common cold.

A professor of Chemistry at Stanford University, Dr. Pauling was awarded the Nobel Prize for Chemistry in 1954 and the Nobel Peace prize in 1962.

Bonstelle sets O'Neill play

Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey Into Night" opens at the Bonstelle Theatre Feb. 11 at 8:30 p.m. It continues the next night and the following two weekends, Feb. 18-19 and 25-26 at 8:30, closing with a 2:30 Sunday matinee on Feb. 27.

This is O'Neill's 1940 work which is clearly about himself and his own family, a play he said he wrote "with deep pity and understanding and forgiveness." The play was not released until 1956, after his death. After being produced in Sweden and on Broadway, it has been performed all over the world and has been made into a film. It was recently revived with great success in New York.

The Bonstelle production features guest actor Leonard Bradley and graduate student JoDene Septak as James Tyrone and his wife Mary, and undergraduates Dennis Dunne and Thomas L. Torgerson as their sons, Jamie and Edmund. Undergraduate Mary Tiseo plays the maid Cathleen.

of "Long Day's Journey Into Night" at the Group Theatre, which he founded and directed.

Miss Septak, a 1965 graduate of Wayne State University, was an undergraduate acting award winner at the Bonstelle in 1963 for her performance as Mary Follett in "All the Way Home."

"Long Day's Journey Into Night" is directed by N. Joseph Calarco, with scenery by Joseph Falzetta, costumes by Timothy Alberts and lighting by William Rynders.

Tickets at $2.50 evenings and $2 for the matinee are on sale at the Wayne State University Theatre Box Office, Cass and Hancock, or through J.L. Hudson ticket offices. Door sale at the Bonstelle begins one hour before curtain. Reservations and information may be secured by calling the Theatre Box Office at 577-2960.

Manufacturers' new ideas for the market

THE PRODUCT—A pre-packaged rural suburban mailbox kit in three sizes, one of which is large enough to handle packages as well as mail of all sizes.

Manufacturer claims the kit contains a steel post, box, nameplate, mounting bracket and everything needed for immediate use ... that the heavy gauge galvanized steel mailbox has a snug-fitting door with sturdy hinges and rolled clamped seams to provide a positive weather seal ... that a corrugated bottom gives extra strength and prevents mail from sticking to the bottom ... that the mounting bracket, made of rustproof baked-on enamel, clamps to the post and attaches to the mailbox easily ... that the strong steel post, with a touch of scroll work, cannot turn due to a special structural design ... and that the all-weather nameplate with easy-to-read one-inch-high letters and numerals is clearly visible from both sides ... and that a bright red flag locks in for an up or down position.

THE PRODUCT—A pre-finished "modular" window.

Manufacturer claims the unit is actually four windows in one ... that it is a versatile hinged operating window that can be installed as a casement or as an awning by turning it 90 degrees ... that in either installation it can be used with or without removal grilles ... that this allows home manufacturers to stock just one type of window yet have a choice of styles ... and that it has a white pigmented primer and a finish coat of electrostatically applied paint.

THE PRODUCT—An aerosol spray that gives an antiqued or "Flemish" appearance to artificial flowers, fruits and dried plants.

Manufacturer claims the pushbutton finish can be applied before or after assembly of individual flowers, fruits or dried plants into centerpieces, bouquets or other decorations ... that the spray can be used from any distance up to 15 inches ... that finished decorations can be cleaned with mild soap and water ... and that the "Flemish" look, a method of bringing out highlights on irregular surfaces without obscuring the underlying coloration of the object, can be obtained without the tedious process of using a brush with care and skill.

cess of using a brush with care and skill.

THE PRODUCT—A screwdriver that operates as a 10-500 volt circuit tester.

Manufacturer claims the circuit tester is operated by inserting the screwdriver tip into an outlet receptacle or in contact with a bare wire while one finger is held on the top of a red cap at the handle end ... that the handle lights up if the circuit is live or if the wire is a positive lead ... and that the tool is fully insulated, safe to use and has a breakproof, shockproof clear plastic handle.

(If you want to know how to fix things, get a copy of Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," by sending $1 to this newspaper in care of Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

(The mailbox kit is manufactured by Rybolt Co., 615 Miller St., Ashland, Ohio 44805; the window by Andersen Corp., Bayport, Minn. 55003; the aerosol spray by Da-Kor Products, 2530 Blackwood Rd., Wilmington, Del. 19810; and the screwdriver by Vaco Products, 510 North Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. 60610.)

Lumber storage

For the home handyman, storing lumber often is a problem, but a simple-to-build bin can keep it out of the way. It's constructed of 2-by-4 inch pine or fir. Two long pieces are fastened to joists or rafters, extending down the wall about eight feet apart.

A rack of 1-by-4 inch lumber is built out from the bottom of the 2-by-4's for stacking sheets of plywood or boards. Two upper shelves are built, using shorter lengths of 2-by-4's fastened to the joints about two feet out from the wall, and 1-by-10- or 1-by-12-inch boards set on 1-by-4-inch crosspieces.

Questions, answers

Q.—We have a concrete swimming pool on our property. Up to now we have had it serviced, but this year I intend to do it myself. One of the things that must be done is to paint the inside of it. What kind of paint should I use? How do I estimate how much is needed?

A.—Ask your dealer to give you a swimming pool paint formulated for use on concrete. Different manufacturers use different names for it, but the dealer will know what is required. A swimming pool paint is resistant to the alkali in concrete that attacks ordinary paint. One gallon will cover about 200 square feet.

Q.—Help me to avoid a mistake I made a couple of years ago. I removed the finish from a bureau with a varnish remover, but nicked the wood a couple of times with the putty knife I was using as a scraper. Is there a way to avoid this? I have a similar job coming up soon.

A.—Consider the possibility of using one of the chemical removers designed to eliminate scraping. They have their supporters and their detractors. I tried one of the non-scraping removers and found it excellent, but there was only one coat of varnish on the piece of furniture. Some say it doesn't work too well on objects with several coats of paint or varnish. In any case, if you use a putty knife again, hold it at a low angle rather than upright or nearly upright. Work slowly and carefully and you won't gouge the wood.

Q.—Why is hydrated lime used in mortar when working on bricks? I notice it isn't used in other concrete mixes.

A.—Hydrated lime makes the mixture flow more easily, thus enabling mortar to be packed in tightly between bricks.

Q.—One of the downspouts on our house is clogged with something, as no water comes out of it during a rain. How can it be unclogged?

A.—It depends on what the obstruction is. If it is merely leaves or congealed mud, flushing the downspout with water from a hose placed into the top of it may work. If something more solid is lodged in the downspout, try dropping a weight, tied to a rope, into the opening at the top. Another dislodging weapon is the so-called plumber's "snake," ordinarily used for clearing pipes of obstructions. If nothing works, you have no alternative but to remove the downspout, usually less difficult than it seems.

(For either of Andy Lang's booklets, "Wood Finishing in the Home," or "Paint Your House Inside and Out," send 30 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to KnowHow, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.)

Room bonus in basement

Adding living space in a basement calls for a light color scheme and rich-looking materials to avoid creating a subterranean atmosphere.

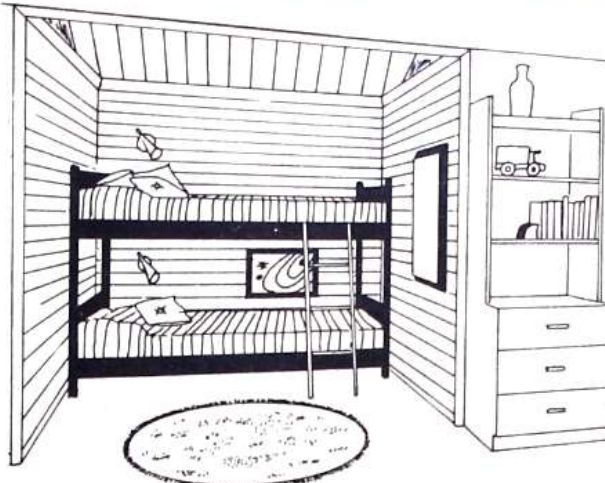

Many decorators recommend sun colors, even for daylight basements, to make them look warmly hospitable. One approach is to panel the walls with solid lumber, choosing a light-toned wood like western pine or hemlock.

Installed vertically, the boards will give the effect of pushing the ceiling higher and light-colored ceiling and floor will add to this feeling.

Storage and other built-ins can be clad with the matching paneling for a custom touch.

Unightly furnaces and other appliances can be hidden with an enclosure of the same material, and using a solid panel door helps baffle noise, lends richness to the area at little extra cost.

A long window area with slanted skylights over planter space brightens a basement room. High ground-level windows can be given a "deeper" look by adding louvered wood shutters below and "open" shutters at the sides.

ELBOW ROOM — The latest idea in stretching a budget while enlarging living space is the Elbow Room. Here, used as a children's room, it provides area for bunk bed, frees space for play and studying.

Add on space and save cash

From the time he built his first crude shelter, man has found himself in homes a little too snug to contain his family comfortably, much less accommodate extra living and leisure activities.

In these days of tightened budgets, a $5,000-$10,000 item for a new room is beyond the reach of most families, so a remodeling concept that stretches rooms at modest cost is welcome news.

The $600, do-it-yourself cost estimate for a versatile 6x8-foot addition known as the Elbow Room is possible because it uses existing electrical and heating facilities of the room it adjoins, and needs no plumbing.

The easiest, most economical positioning for an Elbow Room is at an existing window or door, at least four feet wide. This means less wall area to remove and reduces header construction.

First step is to decide how the room is to be used. Built on as a bunk room for children, it takes beds out of the way, leaving most of the bedroom space for play or studying.

Or the Elbow Room can be a dressing area, freeing extra space in the master bedroom. Some persons may prefer a greenhouse off the family room, a sewing or crafts center, or a television-stereo entertainment area.

If the room is to be used as an art studio, for music practice, or for cluttered activities, bifold louvered wood doors may be added. Built next to a family room, it adds versatility for entertaining.

The room is built on a slab or footings, finished to complement the house exterior, and has a shed or gable roof. Interior is western board paneling and various window treatments are possible. The Elbow Room was designed to conform to model codes.

Materials may range from $400 to $600. A kitchenette adaptation costs more, because of appliances, plumbing and wiring.

Detailed plans and an eight-page color booklet of Elbow Room ideas are available for 25 cents in coin from the Home Improvements Editor, Associated Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Ave. W., Wayne, Michigan 48184. Allow about one month for delivery.

Special closets for the home

Specialized storage closets, for linens or cleaning equipment and supplies, should be located close to areas served and often can be built in spaces too small to accommodate full-size closets.

A linen closet should be as close as possible to bedrooms, but smaller closets could be added in bathrooms for towels and wash cloths, and in dining room or kitchen for table linens.

Door openings should be eight feet high and about as wide as the closet, to allow storage all the way to the ceiling and for easy access on the sides. Ideal linen shelf depth is 12 to 16 inches, about the width of two 1x8-inch western pine boards.

No single location for a cleaning closet is convenient to all areas of the house, so it may be best to split this storage.

A floor-to-ceiling cabinet about 12 inches deep (depending on bulk of vacuum cleaner) and three feet wide should be sufficient, with upper third devoted to shelves.

Romulus PTA groups plan celebration dinner

A series of Founder's Day observations will be presented by local PTA units during February to give recognition to Parent-Teacher activities. The PTA movement was begun on Feb. 17, 1879 in Washington D.C. when Alice McLelland Birney, Phoebe Apperson Hearst and others founded the organization. Founder's Day celebrations are a traditional part of PTA activity.

Romulus Elementary PTA, headed by Mrs. Marjory Butler, will present a spaghetti dinner on Tuesday, Feb. 8, in the school multi-purpose room at 11165 Olive St. Tickets for the event will be available through Feb. 4 at the school office. Costs will be $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for children between 5 and 12 years of age.

A music program is planned by Mrs. Margaret Bird and Mrs. Elvira Cline, co-chairmen. Assisting Mrs.

Butler with dinner plans are Mrs. Mary Ann Christenson, Mrs. Genevieve Dugan and Fred Mena.

On Feb. 9 Merriman PTA will hold its first Founder's Day observance. Plans for the dinner are being made by Mrs. Ruby Tracy, chairman. The meal will be served in the school multi-purpose room, 15303 Merriman Rd. Among the invited guests, according to Mrs. Carole Bales, president, will be those who served on the committee that helped plan the school, which is the district's newest and most modern facility.

Cory PTA has chosen Monday, Feb. 14, as the date for a swiss steak dinner to be held at the Romulus Senior High School cafeteria and catered by Mrs. Pearl Bower and the cafeteria staff.

At Belleville High

Travelogue set for 8 tomorrow

The fifth of a series of travelogues being sponsored by the Belleville Kiwanis Club will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday) at the Belleville High School Auditorium.

Presenting the travelogue, entitled "Grecian Panorama," will be Joe Adair, one of America's youngest travelogue artists. Adair has lived, worked and traveled in 40 countries on four continents, and his love for people and his capacity for absorbing new and varied experiences has equipped him for his presentation.

He is a graduate of the State College of Iowa. He was a contributing author to the books "Letters from the Peace Corps," an organization he served with in Africa.

Tickets are available at the door or from any Kiwanian. Proceeds from the travelogue go to the Kiwanis continuing program of community service.

Huron High names new majorette squad

The Huron High School has announced the members of its new majorette corps.

Tryouts for the corps were held in September. Out of the 62 original applicants, nine girls were selected according to their marching and twirling abilities, as well as academic standing.

They are: Teresa Uchman, Paula Brown, Mary Insko, Tina Nance, Wendy Miller, Becky Bowman, Pam Manooch and co-captains, Shelley Schuman and Debbie Bosman.

In addition to football games and parades, the twirlers will be performing at some basketball games and other programs.

Review board plans meeting

Boy Scout Council thanks many helpers

The Detroit Area District Council of the Boy Scouts of America has approved a resolution thanking all who have assisted the council and various Boy Scout troops during the 1971 year.

The resolution was adopted at the annual meeting of the council held Jan. 25 at the Veterans Building in Detroit.

Details of the resolution were disclosed Monday by Ray O'Neil, Boys Scout official and Belleville's postmaster.

O'Neil stated the resolution was his and the council's way of thanking local leaders and residents for their work in helping the Boy Scout movement. The resolution in part reads as follows:

"That we register our thanks to the officers and executive board members of the council for their sincere interest in youth and their devotion to the program of the Boy Scouts of America; and especially to John S. Pingel who served as president for the years of 1970 and 1971, and to F. Lloyd Smith, who served as council commissioner for the years 1967 - 71, for their outstanding leadership.

"That we express our thanks to the community organizations, schools, churches, synagogues, parent-teacher organizations, service clubs and other institutions who, by their sponsorship, have made available the program of scouting to the greatest number of boys ever registered in the Detroit Area Council;

"That we publicly thank all volunteer leaders - particularly cubmasters, scoutmasters, explorer advisors and den mothers, without whose leadership many boys would be denied the scouting program, and also our district officers, commissioners and committeemen who so ably served the institutions of their respective communities;

"That we express our appreciation to the officers, members of the board and executive staff of the United Foundation and the United Community Services for their consideration in the interest of scouting;

"That we register our thanks to everyone who contributed to the council's operating budget through the sustaining membership program and special grants and to private foundations, trust funds and individuals who contributed to the council's capital funds program, the tribute fund and the trust fund;

"That we commend the leaders of business and industry and the communications media for their assistance and services and the interest of their employees in assisting our council in many ways;

"That we declare our respect for the members of our professional staff who are dedicated to the development of good character and training for purposeful citizenship through scouting;

"That we resolve to work towards greater unity in all of our communities and full meaning in the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag.

"That we reaffirm our support for the expansion and extension of the movement through "Boypower '76" program by making scouting available to a representative one-third of the boys in our council without regard to race, creed, social or economic circumstances.

Says inspector

House numbers on boxes helpful

The placing of house numbers on rural post office boxes can be of great assistance to police and other Van Buren Township emergency crews.

Darryl Robson, chief building inspector, reported instances of difficulty in quickly locating the right house on emergency runs recently.

He stated that the use of flash lights or other lighting equipment to locate a specific house has created some alarm to nearby neighbors.

He urged township residents to assist police and other township emergency employees by having just their house numbers posted on their mail boxes or some area visible to road traffic.

Students learn of Red Cross

The director of the youth program of the American Red Cross, Betty Smith, visited the Beverly, Gordonier and Romulus Elementary schools last Wednesday (Jan. 26).

She informed the students of various projects they could undertake to help others - "Giving an extension of yourself" is how she worded it.

The students at Beverly School made Christmas tray covers for hospital patients and are planning other projects. At Romulus Elementary School the students are busy filling friendship boxes to be sent to children in disaster areas. They also made tray covers at Christmas time.

Students at Gordonier School collected for UNICEF, remembered the senior citizens in the Romulus area at Christmas and are now making items for the Headstart program. Each school has a teacher sponsor and student committee to assist the students in their projects.

Mrs. Lucille Combs, school nurse, is the coordinator of youth services in Romulus.

'Michigan Mother' search under way

Nomination blanks are now being distributed throughout the state by the Michigan Mothers Committee in the search of candidates for 1972 Michigan Mothers.

Anyone may send in the name of a candidate if they have the recommendation of a recognized organization. The candidate must be a regular member and worker in her church or synagogue, and not only must the mother be a woman of achievement, but her children also must have fine records.

If you know of a wonderful mother who you think qualifies, send her name today to the state chairman, Mrs. Wesley L. Mueller, 30150 Cheviot Hills Court, Franklin, 48025, for a nomination blank.

Deadline for entries is March 1.

At North Junior High

Musical program slated Feb. 12

A musical program entitled "Velvet Vibrations" will be presented at the North Junior High School Cafeteria by the new Belleville Jazz Group, Marching Society and Students Conservatory Band.

The event will be held from 8:30 to 11 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 12. Refreshments will be served throughout the evening.

Tickets are available from Belleville High School band members at $1.50 per person. This special evening of music is being sponsored by the Belleville Band Mothers Association.

There are 21 students in the new coed jazz group. They have been rehearsing on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 7 to 7:45 a.m. before school classes get under way.

The new group is led by band director Greg Heuer.

Civil service test results public

Results of state civil service examinations and rankings on resulting employment lists will be public information, State Personnel Director Sidney Singer announced.

For the past 27 years the department has advised candidates of their test scores but did not make the results generally known. Rankings of eligible names certified to departments for appointment purposes also were confidential.

"This policy may have served its purpose in the past, but it will be our future policy to lean in the direction of an open door and disclosure," Singer said. "In this case keeping these rankings confidential creates more problems than it solves and can feed mistrust and misunderstanding. Departments have not always kept our certifications confidential anyway," he said.

All civil service examination announcements published starting Jan. 17, or thereafter will contain a notice: "Employment lists resulting from this competition will be a matter of public records."

Since past policy guaranteed applicants their results would not be made public, the policy is not retroactive.

Band members prepare

The Huron High School Band members are busy preparing for the solo and ensemble festival to be held in early February, along with a winter concert.

At a recent "Boost the Band Day" held in Huron Township, the high school band played in New Boston and nearby Waltz. The band members canvassed the area for donations toward 30 additional uniforms needed for 1972.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grover of New Boston organized the campaign with several band parents lending their time and support.

The band expressed thanks and appreciation to the Grovers and parents, as well as to the residents whose donations helped put the uniform fund almost $1,000 closer to the goal.

Local scout council looks hard at program

Nearly 100 administrative volunteers of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council met this week to take a close look at the Girl Scout program in troops and at what girls 7-17 say they would like to have happen in their ideal groups.

In the conference, entitled "How Can Girl Scouting Meet the Needs of Girls Today?", troop services directors, trainers, board members and area association chairmen from Washtenaw, Livingston, and Wayne counties heard Miss Sandi Gaynor, program specialist of Region 4 of the Girl Scouts of the USA, report on the findings of a recent study of girls aged 7-17 from throughout the country.

The girls were asked to describe what their ideal group would like in terms of activities, group size, group age span, uniforms, meeting time and place, and the characteristics of the adult leader. They were then asked to compare Girl Scouting with their ideal group on those same points.

Mrs. Louis Galan, Dexter council vice-president, moderated a panel discussion on what Girl Scouting looks like today from the point of view of the participants: Senior Scout Suzy Dice, Ann Arbor, who is also a member of the council board; Cadette Scout Gwendia Graessly, Ypsilanti; and Junior Scout Margaret Maly, Ann Arbor.

Other panelists were Mrs. Toni Schneider of Saline, troop services director; and David Weston of Ann Arbor, board member and father of a Girl Scout.

In small group discussions, the participants in the conference discussed what they could do to help troop leaders provide the kind of flexible program girls say they want and to implement the other findings of the study.

Discussion leaders were Mrs. Joseph Chicky of Westland; Mrs. George Bauer of Plymouth; and Mrs. Francis Maly and David Weston, both of Ann Arbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Herrmann of Westlake Street held a party Friday in celebration of the fourth birthday of their son, Geoff. Four cousins, Eric and Kristin Morris of Walnut Street, William Fox of Huron River Drive South, and Darius Varner of Haggerty Road and also Terri Ballard and David Dove of Romulus; had a party lunch with Geoff at 5 p.m. Adult relatives visited in the evening and enjoyed birthday cake and ice cream.

Clair Keller of Craig Street, who is spending the winter months in Florida, has been ill, according to local relatives. He would enjoy hearing from local friends.

Romulus Jaycees support millage vote

Carl W. Morris, president of the Romulus Board of Education, was the guest speaker at the January membership meeting of the Romulus Jaycee Club. The meeting was held Jan. 25 at the Holiday Inn.

upcoming Romulus school millage referendum to be placed before the school district's voters on March 13.

Morris spoke about both sides of the issue, indicating the pros and cons which have been voiced to date. He then fielded questions from the Jaycee members.

Following Morris' presentation, the Jaycees moved unanimously to support the 10-mill renewal proposal.

The Jaycees vote indicated it was their belief the consequences of lessening the school program by the impact of a 10-mill loss was far too great a penalty to pay compared to the benefit each individual taxpayer could gain through a 10-mill reduction in his tax base.

Within 5 local churches

Ecumenical move is on

Delegates from five local churches of Belleville met Monday, (Jan. 24) in the Belleville United Methodist Church to further plans for ecumenical work in the community.

The participating churches are Belleville United Methodist Church, Belleville United Presbyterian Church, Lutheran Church of The Apostles, St. Anthony Catholic Church and Trinity Episcopal Church.

Cooperative work of four committees from each congregation will strengthen the witness and outreach of the churches through this ecumenical endeavor.

The education committee is sponsoring a series of Wednesday evening ecumenical study sessions during Lent, meeting in a different church each week. Filmstrips on the work of the church will be shown and will serve as discussion starters.

The five pastors of the involved churches will serve as a panel for discussion and to answer questions. The schedule is Feb. 23 in St. Anthony church, March 1 in the Methodist church, March 8 in the Episcopal church and March 15 in the Presbyterian church.

The liturgical committee plans for the participating churches to celebrate Sunday, Feb. 13 as "ecumenical Sunday." Each congregation will sing "The church's one foundation is Jesus Christ her Lord" as a common hymn.

Prayers for the cooperative ecumenical work of the church will be offered in each congregation. The message of each pastor will center on our common ministries.

The liturgical committee also is planning a pot-luck supper in the Father Folta Building on Sunday, March 19 as a conclusion of the Lenten midweek study sessions. Following the meal a summation of the study groups will be presented and committee activity will be reported. The young people will furnish pre-dinner music.

The service committee is sponsoring a clothing drive in each church on the second Sunday of each month. The clothing is to be distributed through the Sumpter Clothing Center on Willow Road. An emergency drive is being conducted for a family that was burned out of their home. Needed immediately are a refrigerator, a gas stove, beds or bed frames, blankets, rugs, a chest of drawers, curtains and a large size woman's coat. Anyone willing to contribute these items can call Mrs. Robert (Patti) Grace at 697-0636.

The youth committee is involving the young people of the congregations in caring for the glass recycling center at the north side of the Presbyterian church's property.

VOCATIONAL CENTER STUDENT - The new Belleville High School Vocational Trade Center held an open house last Sunday afternoon, drawing leaders of business, government and the school system as well as

Sabo predicts better times ahead in Sumpter

Commissioner John N. Sabo Jr. (D-24th Dist.) said yesterday that he felt there would be better cooperation between the citizens of Sumpter Township and the Township Board of Trustees as a result of a Friday meeting.

Sabo acted as mediator in an attempt to settle some problems in Sumpter.

According to Sabo, who represents Sumpter on the county board, he made recommendations on three major items which were brought up at the meeting.

Regarding the controversy on the police force, Sabo said he recommended that Police Chief David McNeale be retained and that Patrolman Jerry Cox, suspended by the chief, be reinstated on a one-year probationary period on a level no higher than that of sergeant. Cox was demoted from sergeant to patrolman by the township board.

The commissioner also said he recommended that a back-up police car be used for emergencies.

Addressing the issue of the animal shelter, Sabo said he felt the township should get together with the City of Taylor on a temporary or permanent basis. He said animals could be housed in Taylor at a cost of $3,750 for six months or $6,500 on a one-year basis.

Regarding the sewer and water problem, Sabo said he suggested the township look into the possibility of retaining federal and county aid for funding sewers.

The commissioner said he felt a "lack of communication, misunderstanding and half-truths" had existed originally between the board of trustees, Township Clerk Amanda Robert and Supervisor Elmer Parraghi.

Sabo said the people of Sumpter had a chance Friday to ask questions of the officials and he said he felt they got a "better understanding of what is happening."

Faust, Mahalak in icy accidents

State Sen. William P. Faust (D-13th District) and State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-38th District) both escaped injury in separate accidents on a bridge at the intersection of U.S. 23 and Interstate 96 outside Brighton.

Faust and his father, Paul Faust, were enroute to Lansing at 8:35 a.m. Friday when they hit a slick of ice to avoid hitting a car changing lanes in front of them. Their car, driven by the senator, spun into a guardrail, and flipped over it, rolling three times on a 30-foot embankment before coming to rest.

Both occupants were trapped inside the wreckage for nearly an hour and a half before State Police from the Brighton Post were able to free them. They were rushed to Ann Arbor St. Joseph Hospital. They were treated and released.

Faust and his father were reported to have suffered cuts and bruises, despite the fact the car was totally demolished. Both were wearing seatbelts.

While police were freeing the Fausts, when Mahalak hit the same slick of ice, losing control of his car. The representative spun off the road, knocking down four reflector poles before coming to a halt on the shoulder.

Gollwitzer vows to fight expansion

We can assume that it would be impossible to ignore its value as an airport. To use it will probably require modernization. But to increase its activity (flights per year) as planned by the Wayne County Road Commission does not seem necessary. Holding this down to a reasonable activity is assured only if the modernization is such that greater activity is impossible.

Our effort in this direction is to limit the airport to about its present size and activity.

With Belleville Lake in the center of it, Van Buren Township is unique. The presence of the lake makes this a nice residential area not only for those living on the lake but also for those who use it for recreation and those who enjoy looking at it from time to time.

Such a natural asset is very valuable and one which we now realize must be protected against ruthless development made in the name of progress. So, if it is argued that it is necessary to ruin a residential area for airport use, a good case can be made for not letting it happen to Van Buren.

Efforts now being made to acquire this lake and a 101-acre park from the Detroit Edison Co. (without cost to the township) should make this natural asset even more valuable as it will provide more recreation than it has in the past. Certainly, we should be able to convince state officials that this valuable asset should not be destroyed.

With the above facts in mind, I am urging the Economic Development Committee and the State Affairs Committee of the State Legislature to approve a different location.

This I am doing by speaking before them and providing them with printed literature which aptly describes our community. Now I am trying to enlist the services of the Water Resources Commission to help preserve our resources.

Meanwhile, the Flint area is trying hard to get the next big airport in Michigan. So, if you have any friends in Flint, ask them to work harder, as they should have it. They would be able to service a large area from Pontiac to Bay City and possibly even west to Lansing.

Our immediate problem is to get a firm assurance that the airport will be permanently limited to a definite area. This is very important because, without it, no planning can be effective.

Many people feel, for instance, that we should have a shopping center. But, if you were an investor, would you invest in such a center, knowing that about eight square miles next to you could become an unpopulated void and that one of the major access roads might be cut off? The same thinking plagues the minds of many developers.

General Motors has stopped after completing their first building because additional buildings would appear to be in the way of one of the Wayne County Road Commission's airport runways. We have selected Beck Road, the present easterly boundary of the airport property, as our permanent easterly boundary.

The township will soon have legal help in advising what steps can be taken to freeze this boundary. In the meantime, we have created an airport zone limited to that area. Under present law, the township would have to approve a zoning change before expansion could occur.

However, legislation is presently being considered to allow the state to override local zoning decisions. This is being opposed by local governments who think that "big brother" is not sensitive enough to the individual.

I want to assure all those who read the above that the airport expansion as proposed by the Wayne County Road Commission is by no means "inevitable."

It may take work to contain the airport within its present boundaries but efforts are being made. We have a good chance of success and the support of each individual is important and necessary.

Ford introduces bill to aid poorer schools

Congressman William D. Ford (15th-Dist.) announced last week that 36 members of the House of Representatives have joined him in co-sponsorship of The Quality School Assistance Act of 1972.

Congressman Ford first introduced the bill in December, with the co-sponsorship of four Michigan colleagues — Reps. Martha Griffiths, John Dingell, James G. O'Hara and Lucien Nedzi.

Among the new co-sponsors is Congressman Carl Perkins, of Kentucky, chairman of the Education and Labor Committee of which Ford is a member.

The legislation is designed to provide massive federal aid for the nation's hard-pressed school districts, which have reached a crisis situation in most parts of the country.

Ford's bill would provide direct grants to local boards of education, with an estimated $12 billion in aid for the forthcoming fiscal year 1972-73.

This figure is based on a federal contribution equalling 20 per cent of the average per-pupil expenditure, either the state or national average, whichever is higher. Over the next three years, the federal grants would rise by five per cent annually, until the total federal contribution reaches 35 per cent in 1976, when it would remain at that figure.

"At present, the federal contribution totals less than seven per cent of the national expenditure," Congressman Ford said. "Studies by the federal government and by private education groups have recommended that this figure be increased to at least 30 per cent. Dr. Sidney Marland, Commissioner of Education, has suggested a federal contribution of 25 to 30 per cent."

In a speech to his colleagues in the House, Congressman Ford said: "Rhetoric will no longer satisfy our nation's educators; it will no longer satisfy the taxpayers. The time has now come for action."

Congressman Ford estimated that, under his plan,

Michigan schools would receive over $460,000,000 in federal aid in the 1972-73 fiscal year, the seventh highest total in the nation. Larger sums would go to New York, California, Pennsylvania, Texas, Illinois and Ohio.

The Quality School Assistance Act includes three basic provisions; greatly expanded general aid to education, special construction and modernization funds for impoverished school districts, and continued aid to districts with heavy concentrations of federal employees. The general aid would be allocated on the number of children aged 5 through 17 in a given school district.

Districts with an average of more than 30 students per existing classroom would be given additional funds. Priority in funding would be given to districts operating half-day sessions.

Congressman Ford noted that his plan offered "a sensible alternative to the busing of school children."

"This kind of determined federal commitment to education would eliminate the need for busing, by giving every child the opportunity for quality education in the neighborhood school nearest his home," Congressman Ford said.

"It would also provide vitally needed relief for the hard-pressed local taxpayer, who has seen his property taxes rise astronomically in recent years. Property taxes now account for approximately 98 per cent of all local tax revenue," Congressman Ford pointed out. "They simply cannot be raised any higher."

Pap test clinic slated during Health Week

Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael has proclaimed the week of Feb. 7-11 as Health Week in the City of Romulus.

During the week the Romulus Jaycee Auxiliary will sponsor a free pap test clinic in conjunction with the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

The cancer detection program is the result of surveys showing that more than 600 Metropolitan women die each year as a result of cervical cancer. The irony of the situation, it is reported, is that it is one of the easiest forms of cancer to detect and treat.

Chairman of the sponsoring groups are Mrs. Don Carollo of the Romulus Jaycee Auxiliary and Mrs. Florence Klein of the Helping Hand

Thrift Shop, representing the local branch of the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

They have established a local telephone number to be called for appointments. Clinic personnel can be reached at 326-1140 between 9 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. The appointments for the Feb. 7-11 week will be from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4:30 p.m. on each of the five days.

Area women from Romulus, New Boston and the surrounding communities are urged to avail themselves of the free services.

It should be noted that while the test requires very little time, the use of the local phone number for appointments will help to insure an orderly, quick process during the testing days.

Romulus Jaycees compile city directory

A Romulus area city directory is being prepared by the Romulus Jaycees, it was announced Monday.

Feeling the local citizens should have a better opportunity to avail themselves of their city's services, the Jaycees are compiling a directory of those services and goods which can be found in Romulus or nearby the city.

The directory also will include listings of local groups, churches, city personnel and a map of the Romulus area.

It is projected that more than 8,000 of the handy, reference booklets will be delivered at no cost to all citizens and businesses in the Romulus area.

Co-chairmen of the Jaycee directory project, Harold Connon and Charles Cozadd, announced the directory will become an annual project which the Jaycees hope will be instrumental in benefiting both the citizens and businessmen of the community.

While announcement letters will be mailed during the first week of February and the Jaycee salesmen will be working from Feb. 15 to March 15, the Jaycees hope everyone will cooperate by contacting them as soon as possible in order to meet the April distribution target date.

Early contacts can be made as follows: business advertisements, Charles Cozadd at 941-6195 or Harold Connon at 728-4578; religious data, Leland Baumdraher at 941-3093; service or social groups, Joseph Bienkowski at 941-0209.

If no answer at the above phone numbers, call 941-4336, or write Romulus Jaycees, Box 35, Romulus, Michigan 48174.

Group insurance program okayed

A group disability and group life insurance program to cover full-time employees of Sumpter Township has been unanimously approved by the township board.

The program will be underwritten by the Michigan Townships Association (MTA) Insurance Division.

The disability insurance will, after eight days of sickness, pay the employee two-thirds of its salary up to a maximum of $175 per week for 26 weeks.

The life insurance program carries a $5,000 policy of each employee.

The board suspended the township's pension plan. This action freezes the plan until the employee who still contributes to it retires or ends his employment.

A previous action by the board (Oct. 26, 1971) cancelling the pension program was rescinded at the Jan. 25 board meeting.

Belleville men charged with armed robbery

Washtenaw County Sheriff Douglas Harvey said last week that 30 armed robberies and two rapes there have been solved following the arrest of six Belleville men and the issuance of warrants for four others.

Harvey said the arrests culminated a two-week investigation of the crimes by the State Police, Ann Arbor Police, Ypsilanti Police and the sheriff's department.

Those arrested were identified as Emanuel Gillum, 18, of 22814 Sumpter Rd., Leland Thomas, 24, of 25045 Karr Rd., Phillip M. Hopkins, 21, of 25769 Karr, Lawrence Simmons, 25425 Sumpter, and Gerald Lucas. A 15-year-old Belleville youth also was arrested.

Gillum was arrested last Monday and is now awaiting a preliminary examination set for today. Thomas, Hopkins and Lucas are being held in the Washtenaw County Jail on $25,000 bond apiece, charged with an Ann Arbor armed robbery. Simmons is in custody at the Ypsilanti City Jail on a robbery charge there. All five men and the juvenile were arrested last Wednesday.

Sheriff Harvey said he believed the men had been responsible for a series of hold-ups in Washtenaw County during the past two months.

Harvey said the robbers operated regularly in the eastern section of the county and until their arrest "were at work every night."

Harvey said police were aided in the case by an informant who fed them names and descriptions of the alleged armed robbers several weeks ago.

The information was coordinated by the four police departments and the arrests were then made. The county sheriff said several weapons believed to have been used in the crimes also were confiscated.

Harvey said a total of 16 warrants were obtained against the men and he added some will be charged with more than one offense.

Sumpter tables police trial board

The Sumpter Township Board has tabled official action on setting up a police trial board for the Sumpter Township Police Department.

The township's new Police Chief David McNealy had requested the board's approval on the creation of Sumpter's first police trial board. A decision on the request is expected to be made at the Feb. 8 board meeting.

Police Commissioner and board member Virgil Humphreys recommended that no one in the township boundaries be allowed to serve on the trial board.

Chief McNealy reported Monday that Ptl. Jerry Cox, 27, of 110 Cottage Lane, Sumpter, still is suspended. Cox, president of the Sumpter Township Police Officers Association, was suspended for alleged neglect of duty, failure to comply with orders of a superior officer (police chief) and criticizing superior officers.

The police chief stated the Cox investigation would be the first case before the police trial board, when it is approved.

FORMER OWNERS - Mr. and Mrs. William Hennells of Belleville, former owners of Hennells Manufacturing plant, 414 Sumpter Rd., meet Bill Nagy, coordinator of the Van Buren Public School District's vocational program, at an open house held Sunday for the new Belleville High School Vocational Trade Center. The former plant was purchased by the school district and renovated and remodelled to house the facilities of the center.

General tendencies: An ideal day to express your views to others provided you show that you have poise and that your ideas are practical. Get an early start seeing the right people. Make appointments and then keep them on time or you lose out where it counts the most. Adroitness pays off in big dividends, so do not resort to any fancy angling.

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Trying to put your obligations on the shoulders of another could get you in trouble. Don't make any changes now. You can get a feeling of satisfaction for good work accomplished.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) No better day than this to handle reports and other matters that take patience and precision. A persevering attitude can help you reach your goal. Take it easy tonight.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) If you have neglected a good friend lately this is good day to do something about it. You can now handle business matters cheerfully. You can also find a solution to a problem.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) You are under the erroneous impression that you can get away with something today, but this could lead to trouble. Show that you are adroit and a right-thinking person.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Listening to good ideas which kin have could lead to something pleasant in the near future. Don't take kin for granted as you have in the past. Instead, work together as a unit.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You need to cooperate more with associates at this time if you want to get the results you desire. Avoid one who does not understand you and tries to impede your progress.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have some strange ideas and you would do well now to read more and become better informed. You are a good worker but could make your life easier via more education and study.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A person you meet today can show you the path to greater abundance if you listen carefully to what is being said. Save some time for the social pleasure you like in the evening.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have aims that are quite easy to attain if you don't waste time. Make the initial effort. A social visit opens new doors of opportunity for you. Avoid arguments.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have been building up important interests which could be in jeopardy if you are careless today. Stay on the job and forget going off on a tangent. Show kin you are devoted.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you have an opponent who seems hard to understand, try a more kindly attitude and disarm this person. Then you get the right results. Engage in relaxing hobby tonight.

Pices (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Improving your public image is uppermost on your mind now, so take steps in the right direction. Taking chances with your reputation is dangerous now. Take a more serious attitude.

If your child is born today he or she will be one of those very blunt young people who comes right to the point, which is fine, provided this is confined to business matters and not in personal relationships. Be sure to give a practical education and teach to be kind to others. There could be two careers in this lifetime, one of which could be concerned with religion.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Crucial week for cagers

Belleville stays in spin

Team	Suburban	W	L
Redford Union	6	1	1
Trenton	5	2	2
Bentley	5	2	2
Dearborn	4	3	3
Allen Park	3	4	4
Belleville	2	5	5
Plymouth	2	5	5
Edsel Ford	1	6	6

Still trying to shake off the effects of a loss at Dearborn earlier in the season, Belleville's cagers continued to plummet in the Suburban Eight Conference last week. Coach Al Gates' Tigers showed signs of recovery in the second half of their league confrontation with Trenton, but were left holding their fifth league setback in seven starts 85-82. It was Belleville's third consecutive loss and left them with a 2-5 conference record. "We were mentally down in the first half," noted Gates, who pointed out that his cagers haven't been the same since winning the Wayne

Glenn Christmas Tournament. "I can't put my finger on it, but we haven't looked the same since our loss at Dearborn." Gates said he shuffled the lineup in the second half and used three guards - Ron Abraham, Marty Miller and Mike Garland - and the three helped the team back to a 60-all tie, after the Tigers were trailing by as much as 12 points at the half, 38-26.

Miller scored 12, Abraham accounted for eight while Al Cicotte produced nine points in the Belleville comeback.

With the lead exchanging hands at least four times in the last three minutes, Trenton managed to tuck it away on a pair of free throws as Belleville wasted Garland's 12 point performance.

Four Belleville cagers counted double figures with Miller equalling Dale Assenmacker's (Trenton)

NOT IN TIME — Over the outstretched arms of Hamtramck players goes the jump shot of Calvin Harris (14) who pumped in six field goals and 11 free throws for 23 points in Romulus' 84-72 triumph over the Cosmos. Hamtramck has lost only two games in 10 starts - and both were to Coach Dave Court's Eagles.

The Ackron family

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

A family that swims together... sets records together. And that's about what the five Ackron sisters and brothers have been doing since taking up competitive swimming in Belleville.

The two boys, Jim 18, and Dean, 16, have scored several records as members of the Belleville High varsity swim team, while the girls - Sharon 15, Laura 14, and Susan 13, are members of the Tiger Swim Club, and, as such, have distinguished themselves in AAU age group competition.

"They just have natural swimming ability," said their coach, Sam Vicchy, who is the head swim coach at Belleville High School. "They say that Dean was so fat when he started that he couldn't swim a length of the pool. Now Dean has the school's 100-yard butterfly mark and also is a member of the record-setting 200-yard medley relay team."

Dean's older brother, Jim, co-captains the Belleville High team which had won eight straight dual meets before losing last week to Dearborn Edsel Ford in a Suburban 8 Conference meet.

Versatile, Jim can use his swimming acuity for about anything and in a short two year span has broken the school's 200-yard individual medley as well as the 100-yard breast-stroke records.

Both boys earned berths on the Associated Newspapers' All-Area swim team last year. They're shooin' for similar honors this year.

Sharon recently made headlines when she beat a couple of boys in the 100-yard breaststroke in the Ann Arbor Swim Club's class B meet in the Pioneer High School. She covered the distance in a fast 1:25.1. Sisters Laura, and Susan also swim for the Tiger Swim Club which is headed by Bud Susterka, the father of two prominent Belleville swimmers - Brad and Barry who are presently at Belleville High.

The club was formed nearly a 1 1/2 years ago to give the swimmers in the city a chance to compete in AAU age group competition.

The five Ackron swimmers are the children of James and Bea Ackron "who love the sport." James is the owner of the Ackron Construction Company in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ackron aren't swimmers.

"I can't swim a stroke" - confessed Mrs. Ackron. "But I feel that swimming has done wonders for our children. It has given them a sense of belonging to a group," said Mrs. Ackron. "And I feel that children get in trouble today because they don't belong or feel they belong to any group," she added.

She doesn't miss a meet.

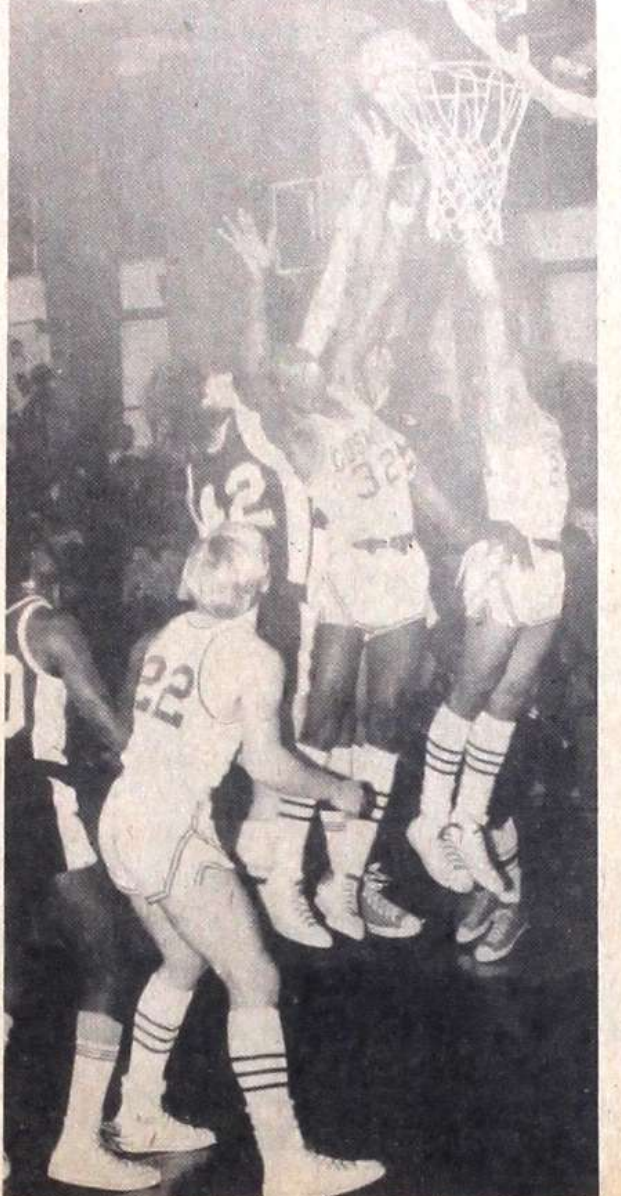

"In the relatively short time the Ackron have been swimming competitively, they have done an outstanding job," pointed out Vicchy. "It's kids like these who make my job very enjoyable."

"Vicchy has been at Belleville only 1 1/2 years and already his teams and swimmers have made noticeable strides as witnessed by the area prep swim & diving listing. Nine out of the 11 top times in the area are held down by Belleville swimmers.

But that doesn't satisfy the enthusiastic Vicchy.

"When told that his team was going to meet Dearborn on Thursday, the defending state Class A champ, Vicchy replied: "They're tough, but some day the roles will be reversed. Wait and see."

Do you know what - we believe him.

UP FOR GRABS — Romulus' Ken McMann (42) and John Long (background) find themselves on the outside when battling for this rebound against Hamtramck's Cosmos. The Eagles however used the boards to spring to their 10th victory in 11 starts, 84-72. Coach Dave Court's quintet will have 10 days to brush up for their test with Inkster whom they'll meet on Fri., Feb. 11.

'Team effort' wins for Romulus

"It was a total team effort," said Romulus wrestling Coach Jim Stallings. "If any one of the kids who won had lost we would have lost the meet."

That's how Stallings described the Eagles' 30-27 victory over a tough Flat Rock aggregation last week.

Romulus was down by as much as 24-6 before recovering its poise and going on to win their fifth meet in eight starts. Aaron Cross (147), Robert Morrison (157), John Arrington (169) and Marvin Williams (187) came off the mats with six point victories to clinch it for Romulus.

The Eagles will meet Lutheran West on Thurs., Jan.

10. They wrestled Saline last night. The results of the meet are as follows:

- 100 pounds: Mark Parr (FR) dec. William Powell (R), 11-2
- 107 pounds: Steve Souva (FR) pinned Ivory Allen (R), 5:55
- 114 pounds: Steve Madhane (FR) pinned Reggie Kirkland (R), 4:2
- 121 pounds: Joe DiMartino (FR) dec. Dave Brainerd (R), 1:28
- 128 pounds: Brad Smith (R) pinned Dan Shepard (FR), 4:55
- 134 pounds: Nick Isabe (FR) dec. Rudy Williams (R), 9:2
- 140 pounds: Gary Simpson (FR) dec. Virgil Smith (R), 7:4
- 147 pounds: Aaron Cross (R) pinned Dave Marovich (FR), 5:49
- 157 pounds: Robert Morrison (R) pinned Dave Ash (FR), 1:32
- 169 pounds: John Arrington (R) pinned Kevin Johnson (FR), 3:35
- 187 pounds: Marvin Williams (R) pinned Larry Washelewski (FR), :50
- HVY: Tom Naufl (R) was dec. by Dave Mazey (FR), 3:0

Simons is wooing national mat mark

Keith Simons is zeroing in on the national high school record for consecutive falls.

Simons, a Belleville High senior and national AAU champ, has strung together 17 consecutive pins, including a 1:37 fall over Fred Stanton which enabled his team to gain a 27-all tie with Dearborn Edsel Ford.

"I feel that Keith can break or tie the national record," said Belleville Coach Tom Fritz. "He has a good chance, barring injuries."

Simons will meet Dearborn next and that may pose a problem. The Pioneers always field respectable wrestling teams.

Fritz was disappointed with his team's performance at Edsel, saying he felt his team should have won. The tie marred a perfect (4-0-1) record.

"We had our chances," Fritz said. "but we blew them."

Fritz commended the outstanding performance of Gary Krajewski who, despite the fact he was wrestling up two weights, managed to decision Cliff Pointor, 12-1. Jose Garcia "just continues on winning," as he pinned Greg MacBeth in 2:40, while sophomore Phil Ford did a nice job on Mark Alcamo, (Continued on Page B-2)

Ken McMann was given recognition as one of the best defensive football players in the state last season.

McMann, a 6-5 senior, is well on his way of earning the same recognition in basketball. The last three games, the Romulus cager has been given the assignment of stopping the top scorers, and in the last three games, none of the players he has taken on has scored a basket.

"It may be luck or whatever you want to call it," said Coach Dave Court after the Eagles posted a well-earned 84-72 victory over Hamtramck last Friday. "But Ken has been able to stop everyone we have assigned him to."

McMann took on Cosmos Dennis Nunlee, who went into Friday night's game with a hefty 28 points per game average limited him to free throws.

The victory padded the Eagles' record to 10-1 on the season and left the Cosmos a 8-2 won-lost mark. The two Hamtramck defeats were handed to them by the Eagles.

Though Hamtramck stayed uncomfortably close to their hosts throughout most of the game, they never got the lead after forging to a 5-1 advantage which was quickly erased by the fast-breaking Eagles.

With John Hall pumping in five points and McMann accounting for six, Romulus forged a 20-15 edge after the first period. The Eagles, thanks to the sharpshooting of Calvin Harris and James Hall remained in the lead 35-26 at halftime and were out in front 56-46 at the end of the third quarter.

Though the Cosmos cut the Eagle lead to five points in the final frame, the visitors never made up the deficit. Long and Harris shared individual scoring honors for the winners at 23 points each, while Hall accounted for 13, McMann had 12 and Tony Owens chipped in 11 to round out the Eagle scoring.

The game's individual scoring honors went to Charlie Moore, a 5-foot-10 guard who drilled in eight points in each way to a 20-12 first quarter lead and was ahead at the half, 38-28.

Cordts poured in 10 field goals and 11 of 20 from the free throw line to lead all scorers with 31 points. For his last two performances, the swift-moving senior has piled up 60 points.

Huron came back after intermission to outscore hosts 25-17 in the third quarter, then exploded to a 22-11 finale to chalk up their first win. Cordts and Frank Causey combined for 27 rebounds and it was the Chiefs' rebounding that eventually turned the tide, according to Herman.

"We took the boards away from them," remarked Herman. "And I feel Dan Clark's exceptional play in defending Ed Anyata proved to be the difference in this one."

Anyata, who scored 16 of his 24 points in the first quarter, got only eight more when Clark guarded him.

Along with Cordts' 31 points, Clark contributed 13 while Huron finally done it - won a basketball game for its first year coach Andy Herman.

But the Chiefs had to sweat it out most of the first half before managing to get past Monroe Jefferson 75-66 last Friday. It was the first victory of the season for the New Boston high school and the win also cut a 10-game losing streak.

"We needed this victory," said Herman. "It may help us out the rest of the way and I think it will help build the necessary confidence we lacked during the first round of the season."

However, Huron may need more confidence to take on Carelton Airport, whom they'll meet at home Friday night. Airport moved into a two-way tie for first place after beating the previously undefeated Flat Rock.

Huron's Fred Cordts, ailing a couple of weeks ago, showed flashes of brilliance against Jefferson which worked its rest up - scrimmaging Detroit teams - before returning to action on Friday, Feb. 11 when it will travel to Inkster. Inkster is presently leading the Mid-Wayne Conference with a perfect 8-0 record.

15 killed this season

Snowmobile deaths climb

Snowmobile deaths in Michigan have climbed to 15 so far this winter, only 10 below the toll for the entire 1970-71 season, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Nine of the 15 killed—or 60 per cent—were involved in a collision with a car.

During the 1970-71 season, 13 of the 25 fatalities—over half—resulted from snowmobilers colliding with cars or trucks.

In addition, the majority of this winter's snowmobile mishaps have occurred during late afternoon and evening hours, Auto Club points out. Eleven of the 15 killed so far this year on snowmobiles had nighttime accidents. Six of these nighttime deaths involved cars.

Candy sale supports camp

Camp Fire Girls Detroit Area Council members are holding their annual candy sale through Feb. 15, throughout the tri-county area. The sale began Jan. 22. Proceeds from the sale will be used for operating and maintaining Camp Wathana, a 300-acre camp located just outside Holly, as well as supplementing campships for girls in need.

Candy Sale Chairman Mrs. Dorothy Deschryver stated that over 825 groups will be competing for the top sales of the council.

Girls from all four program levels will be selling health candy for one dollar a box.

Individual and group awards will be presented to the girls, groups and leaders who sell the highest number of boxes.

Anyone desiring to order candy, may call the Camp Fire Girls office at 833-2670.

For further information contact Miss Andree Keneau or Miss Janie Joslin at the Camp Fire Girls office, 833-2670.

County commissioners presented with lease

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners Thursday were presented with proposed 40-year lease from the Detroit Tigers by the Wayne County Stadium Authority.

The lease, signed Saturday in Arizona by John E. Fetzer, Detroit Tigers owner, will be evaluated by a five-member stadium committee composed of county commissioners and then hopefully be acted upon by the full board at its Feb. 17 meeting.

A spokesman for the county board said yesterday two "interesting wrinkles" have developed in the proposed lease, both of which should meet with general approval.

The first is a change in the originally proposed per ticket surcharge for tickets to events at the proposed $126 million riverfront stadium. Instead of charging a flat 50 cents per ticket surcharge, a surcharge has been proposed based on a sliding scale basis.

The surcharge will be in five steps, ranging from 20 to 75 cents.

Thomas P. O'Rourke (D-14th Dist.), who is chairman of the commission stadium committee, said he was particularly pleased with this change.

The other key thing involves a change in the financial projections based on the anticipated interest rate on the $126 million bond issue financing the stadium. Originally a 7½ per cent interest rate was projected for the bond issue, but a new 6½ per cent rate is anticipated.

Because of the rate change, the authority expects an additional $600,000 a year in surplus for the first five years.

According to the county board spokesman, the additional surplus will make any danger of a deficit even more remote. Several commissioners, including John N. Sabo Jr. (D-24th) and John J. McCann (D-26th), had strongly objected to the county pledging its faith and credit behind the $126 million bond issue in case the county taxpayers had to make up for a deficit.

Serving on the five-member commissioner stadium committee which will be evaluating the lease is Commissioner James R. McCartney (D-25th).

Lyson-Putman vows read at St. Anthony's

A four-day honeymoon at Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada, followed the December 18 wedding of Jeanene R. Putman and James J. Lyson, both of Belleville.

Double ring vows were exchanged at St. Anthony's Catholic Church with the Rev. Raymond Skoney presiding at the two o'clock nuptials.

Potted red and white poinsettias formed the background for the ceremony which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Putman of 10001 Endicott and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lyson of 20450 Sumpter Road.

Jeanene chose for her wedding day a toe-touching a-line creation of lace over peau de soi, the high neckline ruffled in lace and the full lace sleeves ending in wide cuffs at the wrist.

Her bouffant veil of silk illusion cascaded to elbow length from a lace petaled headpiece and she carried a large colonial bouquet of multi-colored carnations, roses, daisies, and baby's breath.

AS HER SISTER'S only attendant, Cheryl Putman donned a mint green silk brocade gown designed with a tapered bodice and small puffed sleeves. Her leaf-shaped headpiece was also in mint green with a short veil and the gardenia bouquet she carried was accented with deep green flowers.

The bridegroom asked the bride's cousin, Phillip Poet of Romulus, to serve as best man. Ushers were the bride's brother, Timothy Putman, and their neighbor, David LaFramboise.

The P.N.A. Hall was reserved for the reception which followed.

The newlyweds, both graduates of Belleville High School, are now making their home at 156 Wexford, Belleville. The bridegroom is employed by the Ford Motor Company at Saline.

Michigan parks welcome winter campers

The number of Michigan parks keeping gates open to service the winter camper has jumped 30 per cent over last year, the Automobile Club of Michigan reported.

An Auto Club survey of Michigan parks operating this winter shows 62 state and 55 private campgrounds open.

Most state park campgrounds in the past several years have been operating all year. Privately operated campgrounds open this winter have grown 50 per cent as compared with 1971, Auto Club's survey shows.

Camping units are being used by many families to lower the cost of skiing and snowmobiling weekends, since they reduce $15 to $30 nightly lodging costs per couple to $3 or $6 nightly per family. Trailer cooking facilities also help save on the cost of restaurant meals.

One Michigan campground, located just south of Gaylord, is staying open this winter even though the facility just started operation last summer.

"We are located near Bear Mountain and Skyline ski lodges. We have access to 200 miles of marked and about 2,000 miles of unmarked snowmobile trails," states Bob Steubs, manager of Yogi Bear's Jellystone Park Campground.

Some weekends so far this winter, Jellystone Park, with 150 summer sites, has had more than 40 camping families. Patrons pay $4 per night at Jellystone Park, which includes use of electricity plus a heated shower building and an indoor recreation center with a log-burning fireplace.

The campground also keeps its store open all winter and has 11 snowmobiles renting for $8 per hour or $40 per day on weekends.

Camper rentals are also available at Jellystone. The units range from 14 to 18 feet and sleep four to eight persons. Daily rentals range from $16 to $24.

To attract the winter camper, many parks offer low-cost winter storage. Jellystone stores trailers for a minimum monthly charge of $12, which includes three days of free camping each month.

"Winter storage at a campground also means that the unit does not have to be hauled on a weekend, which alone can save the camper the price of a month's winter storage," says Steubs.

Steubs explains that hauling a travel trailer doubles normal gasoline expenses. The person without a trailer in tow who drives north on a weekend from Detroit and uses two tanks of gasoline round trip - costing $14 - would spend twice that amount by hauling a trailer.

Unless trailers are properly winterized - usually for about $50 - floors will be icy with drafts around doors and windows, Auto Club points out. At night, while upper bunks are almost too warm, lower bunks, especially those near windows, will be chilly.

Although most campgrounds do not have running water at sites in winter, campers can check in advance to see if a heated toilet and shower building is available.

At Greenfield Village

Attendance record broken

An all-time attendance record at Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum was shattered just 36 hours before 1971 drew to a close when the 1966 total of 1,538,182 admissions was surpassed at 42-year-old indoor-outdoor museum complex.

The former record high was set five years ago before tightened economic conditions imposed a slow-down on domestic travel in many sections of the country.

Village and museum officials anticipate the year-end total for calendar 1971 will reach close to 1,550,000, a number which includes a quarter million school youngsters in planned educational class visits, family visitations from every state in the Union, foreign visitors and organized groups, which cover the spectrum from conventioners in Detroit to California senior citizens.

Dr. Donald A. Shelly, president of Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum, attributes much of the increase to "an aggressive, significant and communicated program of exhibits and special events, initiated during the institution's 40th anniversary observance in 1969, which truly brings American history to life."

He pointed out that the dual museum complex in Dearborn is generally regarded as the nation's number one museum in attendance among those which receive no governmental financial aid. "We are chartered as a Michigan non-profit, educational institution," Dr. Shelley pointed out, "and our major support comes from our visiting public in the form of admission charges and the sale of food, souvenirs, handcrafted articles and books."

For the 10th consecutive year, the Romulus Elementary PTA has treated the school students to a professional marionette show produced by the well known Meredith Marionettes.

This year the presentation was the old familiar Chinese fairy tale, "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp."

During the hour-long production, 340 children sat enthralled as the 24-inch puppets were perfectly synchronized to the taped story.

At the end of the story, the troupers gave an interesting demonstration which showed how they manipulate the strings to make the puppets perform.

The school principal, Mrs. Margaret Bird, reported the children really look forward to this show and deeply appreciate the generosity of the PTA as well as the Junior High personnel for the use of their gym facilities for the production.

February full of frosty fun with snowmobile, skating races

What do you do when the north wind blows and the snowmobile races there is — whole world seems to be tough on the drivers, covered with snow and ice? In machines, crews, families and Michigan, you get out and get even the spectators. The one-mile oval track, February is filled with "frosty coated with hundreds of layers of ice, has defeated some of the best known names in the Michigan Tourist Council reported.

Leading off is the grand-daddy of all snowmobile racing, the 1-500 at Sault St. For the first time in 20 Marie on Feb. 5. This exacting years, Alpena will play host to 10-hour marathon is not the the North American Speed biggest nor the longest, but it's Skating Championships, Feb.

5 and 6. Top skaters, age 7 to 17 and older, from 37 states and Canada will be competing. This event is the training ground for future U.S. Olympic skating stars.

Among the special guests scheduled to attend the colorful North American are Gov. William Milliken, Terry McDermot — the only U.S. gold medal winner in the 1968 Winter Olympics — and Phil Brady, director of the Michigan Tourist Council.

If you're a 100 per cent, "died in the wool" devotee of the grand old game of golf and if you're a hearty soul, there's the Polar Ice Cap Golf Tournament on Feb. 12 on the ice of Spring Lake, north of the Spring Lake Country Club. With the exception of being shorter, the course is a regulation 18 holes for a pitch and putt game.

Everyone is welcome to enter. Entry blanks may be obtained by contacting the Grand Haven Chamber of Commerce.

If indoor activities are more to your liking and you're already looking forward to the summer months, the Detroit Camper and Travel Trailer Show will be held in the West Artillery Armory near Northland Feb. 19-27.

More than 700 campers, travel trailers, motor homes, folding tent trailers and all kinds of camping equipment will be on display.

Other February events include the Kiwanis Ski Tournament at Pine Mountain with 90 to 100 jumpers from the U.S. and other countries in exciting competition, Sled Dog Races at Whitehall, the North American Snowmobile Championship Races at Munising and the Antique Auto Restorers "sell and swap" get together at Kalamazoo.

Teachers attend testing conference

Four hundred educators from the elementary to community college level are expected to attend the Michigan School Testing Conference, according to Richard Watson, director of program evaluation at Oakland Schools and Frank B. Womer, director of the Michigan School Testing Service at the University of Michigan, conference chairmen.

The conference, to be held Feb. 24-25 at The University of Michigan, is sponsored by The University of Michigan School of Education in cooperation with the Extension Service. In the afternoon on Feb. 25 eight clinic sessions are scheduled. The sessions will deal with the following topics in depth: The Michigan State Assessment Model: Present and Future; Interpretation of Results from the Michigan Assessment; Interpreting Test Results to Parents; Developing a K-12 Testing Program; Developing a Plan for Test Administration and Test Scoring; Evaluating a School Guidance Program; The Assessment of Affective Objectives and Criterion-Referenced Testing.

Birch Society opposes Nixon's added value tax

A statement by the John Birch Society condemning the added value tax was issued Monday by E. Forrest Chapman M.D., of 259 E. Huron Dr., Belleville. It follows:

"Following his State of the Union Message, President Nixon, through his press secretary, launched a trial balloon of the added value tax.

The added value tax is one of the most insidious taxes that can be instituted by any government because it is a serious of hidden taxes which are camouflaged in the retail price of commodities. The general public is then deluded into thinking that increased prices are due to labor and business, and all the while the real cause is increased taxation.

"The Nixon hypocrisy was evident in the wage and price controls. After promising the American people and Congress that he would not impose wage and price controls, President Nixon instituted an economic dictatorship. Significantly, wages and prices were frozen; but taxes and government spending were not.

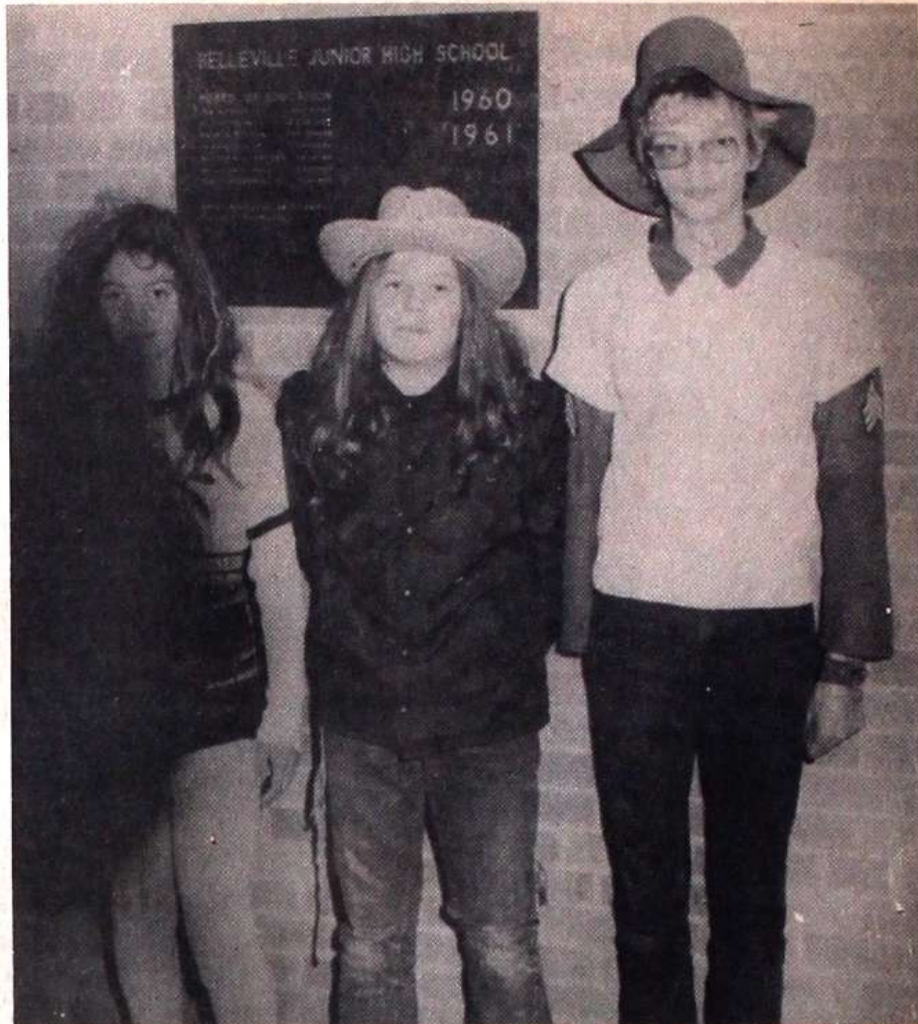

"The added value tax would compound this problem even further. Inflation would continue—business and labor receiving the condemnation and blame for it—while the real culprit, government, increases taxes and spending. "Regardless of whatever euphemistic title is finally assigned to the added value tax by the Nixon Administration, let us hope that the American people will demand that their congressmen vote against this vicious and unnecessary tax."

Belleville resident in society

Miss Connie Baisch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Baisch of 9258 Rawsonville Rd., Belleville, has been initiated into an Eastern Michigan University honorary society.

Miss Baisch was one of 18 active members of Adahi who were installed in Mortar Board. Approximately 45 former Adahi members were also installed in the national honorary.

Adahi, EMU's women's honor society since 1956, was installed as an official chapter of Mortar Board, national senior women's honor society. The installation ceremonies were held Jan. 16.

THE SLOPPIEST — They sure couldn't win any awards for neatness, but then again, who was trying? The object of "slop day" at South Junior High School was to look sloppy, and these students took first prize for looking the worst. They are (from left) Robin Pysnik, Glenn Lovelady and Paul Salisbury.

New booklet published with draft information

How do you obtain conscientious objector status under the new draft law? How long will present student deferments continue for college men? Will young men who enter college in the winter semester be granted deferment?

What is importance of the questionnaires which a young man must fill out within 10 days after registering for the draft? Should he seek advice before he responds to the questionnaire?

The answers, in many instances, are far different than they were last year. Major changes in the new draft law have made most of the old answers obsolete. A new classification system has been instituted. For his own welfare, every young man of draft age should be aware of the changes in the Selective Service law. The place to find those answers is in the newly revised Draft Information Booklet which the Youth Leadership Department of the Detroit Catholic Youth Organization is now offering for sale for $2 a copy.

The booklet may be obtained now at the CYO office, 305 Michigan Ave., Detroit. This new edition, which has just been published, represents the third major revision of the booklet since it was introduced in September, 1969.

The revised booklet contains an account of the Selective Service System, information on registering for the draft, expositions of the draft lottery plan, explanations of deferments and exemptions and a directory of counseling services.

Included is another booklet, "It's Your Choice," which sets forth the educational and training opportunities in military service, the procedures for enlistment for active duty or for the reserves and the possibilities of gaining commissioned status.

The purpose of the Draft Information Booklet is to enable young men to learn the whole range of their options under the Selective Service Law, to inform them of their rights and to point out what they must do to protect their right to appeal.

Young men can find many of the answers in the booklet. And if the booklet does not contain the answer, it will tell them where they can find the information they seek.

City treasurer feted at party

Albert L. Glinski, treasurer of the City of Romulus, was the honored guest at a surprise party held in the observance of his 47th birthday.

The birthday party was a potluck luncheon held last Monday in the staff lounge in the basement of the Romulus Municipal Building.

Glinski, who resides at 36915 Ferndale St., Romulus, was asked to join some of his co-workers and city hall employees for lunch.

When the city treasurer came into the staff room, he was met by a large group including Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael and City Clerk Leonard J. Folmar, who were assembled in the adjoining Community Room to congratulate him on his special day.

The party was organized and planned by Miss Elvera Fischer, head billing clerk of the Romulus Water Department. She was helped by Mrs. Marie Wood, secretary to Glinski.

They invited all the women in the various city departments to come and bring a dish of food to share with the officials and employees.

In order to let everyone join in the festivities without interruption of city service, the luncheon was served buffet style to approximately half the employees and officials, who returned to their posts to permit the remaining employees to participate.

Quarterback Jerry Tagge of unbeaten Nebraska had only four passes intercepted in 12 games last season.
